

TWELVE YEAR OLD HERO

Little Ones Venture Out in Boat, and Be Come Frightened, but Elder Brother Goes to Rescue in Good Time.

There was quite a little excitement among the campers at Webster, for a short time Monday afternoon. Ferdinand, the twelve year old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Krems, who are camping there, is an expert at swimming for one of his age. The day was wet and disagreeable, it will be remembered, and after wading and swimming over to the opposite shore, Ferdinand became quite chilly and sat down on the ground, at the same time calling to his young brothers and sisters to bring over a boat. Three of them jumped into the craft and started to comply with their brother's wish, but after they got out into the stream the little ones began to realize that none of them knew how to handle the oars. The boat commenced drifting down stream, the water there, it being the upper end of the "cut off," being quite swift, and the children became frightened. There were no men there at the time, and the ladies were unable to reach the craft. With difficulty the mother persuaded the children to remain in the boat, one of them especially, little David, being on the edge ready to jump over more than once. Recognizing the danger his little brother and sisters were in and forgetting his own shivering condition, Ferdinand jumped back into the water, swam out and down to the boat, which he reached with no little difficulty, climbed over its side and pulled to shore. The situation was an exciting one for a few minutes, chiefly on account of the danger of the little ones jumping out of the boat in their excitement, but brave little Ferdinand was to the rescue and proved himself a hero.

Secured Contract of $25,000.

L. A. Deguerre, a member of the U. S. Construction Co. of this city, returned Saturday with his automobile from a week's trip at Jim Falls, Raddison and Eau Claire where he had been inspecting the company's work under way the past week. While at Jim Falls he secured another contract from the Davis Falls Land Co. of that place to erect a guard lock 400 feet long and a retaining wall 1,250 feet long. The consideration in this deal amounts to about $25,000. Work will commence immediately and this contract will be pushed along as rapidly as possible in connection with the other work at Jim Falls. —Grand Rapids Reporter.

Thursday's Band Concert.

Lovers of good music may enjoy another treat tomorrow evening, when the Union band gives a concert at court house park. The following program will be rendered: March—"Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet"; "Weinrich Enter Act"—"Little Couquette"; Flath, Barn Dance—"By the Light of the Silvery Moon"; Smith, March—"That Mesmerizing Melodious Tune"; Berlin, Stein's Big Hit—"T. P. G."; Henry, March—"The Happy Hayseed"; Rolfe.

THEY ARE MARRIED NOW

Miss Amelia Betlach and Irwin J. Nelson Quietly Married at Duluth, Where They Now Reside.

Miss Amelia Betlach left here one week ago last Sunday for Duluth, Minn., where the following morning she was married to Irwin J. Nelson, the ceremony being performed by a local parish priest at his residence. There were no attendants, and the event was quietly observed by the happy couple, both of whom were comparatively strangers in that city, the groom having been there but a few weeks. The facts of the marriage were not communicated to relatives here until Thursday, and although it was rumored among friends and acquaintances that it had taken place, no definite announcement could be made in these columns last week.

The bride is the second daughter of Vincent Betlach, a well known meat market man of this city, and Stevens Point has always been her home. She received her education in St. Stephen's parochial school, and thereafter had been assisting in household duties at the family home, being exceptionally proficient in that line, and will prove a valuable life helpmate to the young man who has won her as his bride. The groom is the second son of Mrs. John J. Nelson, 341 Water street, and he also had spent much of his life here previous to about one year ago, when he located for a time in the southern part of the state, and a few months ago went to Duluth, where he is proprietor of a drug store, and has been successful in business, and meeting with good success. He is a young man of good bearing, true, substantial worth and character. The numerous friends of both bride and groom will join with The Gazette in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Nelson a long, happy married life.

South Side Drug Store.

I wish to announce that I shall open a drug store on the South Side in the near future. I have long felt that the South Side has been badly in need of a drug store, a good dependable drug store, but have waited until I could offer something better than you have had in the past, with a complete stock of all that goes to make a first-class place.

I hope that offering such a store, together with honest, conscientious service and experience and ability, which I think to one question, will warrant my asking your good will and patronage.

Hugo Fehmel Dies at Joliet.

Hugo Fehmel, who for about three years was employed as "block cutter" for the Western wall paper mills and its successor, the Phoenix mills, and whose home was at the corner of Strong's avenue and Shaanette street, died at Joliet, Ill., a week ago last Sunday, aged 42 years. He had been ailing for several months with heart trouble and dropsy, but was laid up only a few days. A widow and three children survive him. Mr. Fehmel made many friends while a resident of Stevens Point, to all of whom the news of his death will be received with profound regret.

ALL DUMPED TO PAVEMENT

Short but Lively Runaway Last Saturday Afternoon, in Which Carriage Occupants Escape Luckily.

A runaway that was decidedly brief in its nature, but caused considerable excitement for a few minutes, occurred last Saturday afternoon near the corner of Strong's avenue and Main street, in this city. Mrs. Isiah Altenburg of Plover, drove to the city, to meet her sister, Mrs. Creed of Unity, who came down on the 2:11 train to visit her. Mrs. Altenburg occupied a single carriage, while Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Creed and their two little children occupied another like vehicle. While on their way home, near the corner above mentioned, the animal driven by Mr. Creed suddenly lunged forward, and before it could be stopped the front wheel of his carriage had locked with a rear wheel of the other rig and before anyone had time to realize what had occurred, all the occupants were thrown to the pavement. Mr. Creed had his shin cut, while his wife and Mrs. Altenburg were considerably bruised and shaken up, the others escaping injury. One of the horses turned and ran back to the Arlington House, where it was caught, while the other was captured a block further south. While one of the carriages was badly wrecked, the other was but little the worse for its experience.

The Village School Master.

The Flora DeVoss company will appear at the Grand all of next week, opening Monday evening with "The Village School Master," and a change of program each evening. The scene in the above play opens in the New Hampshire hills; the time is winter, it is Sunday evening and the country people are seen on their way to church. The minister has asked the village school master to preach in his absence; the sermon is about to close when a young girl appears on the scene scantily clad. She has been turned out of one of the neighboring homes, the snow is softly falling and as the choir continues to sing she steps to listen to the music, hesitates and falls on the church steps. A big-hearted shepherd is passing by, he goes to her and without hesitation picks her up and opens the church door for the stray one to enter. The picture is one long to be remembered. The school master and the little lady in question find that "the path of true love does not always run smooth." A college chum appears on the scene and denounces her, and from this time forth the story and action of the play is one of intense interest and the characters never will be forgotten. There are the village gossipers, Bill, the shop-keeper with a heart as big as a wheel, the country doctor, the typical country boy and his better half, the city folks and others. The play is of the latest written type and is one of the most successful comedies in vogue.

The Portage House.

E. L. Fisher, proprietor of the Portage House, on South Second street, left for his former home at Darcy, Tuesday evening, to remain a couple of days on a business trip. Mr. Fisher is no stranger in the hotel business, having had a boarding house at Darcy for several years. The Portage, formerly the Stevens Point House, has been remodeled throughout, the rooms all being placed in a neat, attractive condition, with new beds, bedding and other required furniture, and the new proprietor proposes to make everything attractive and pleasing for his guests and the transient public.

Weds Milwaukee Engineer.

Many friends of Miss Clara L. Rhordanz will be surprised to learn that the young lady was married last Wednesday afternoon, the ceremony taking place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Rhordanz, 212 Center street, at 6 o'clock. The groom is Frank Hornberg of Milwaukee, an engineer on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. Rev. H. O. Ristow, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church, officiated. Miss Rhordanz was a handsome young woman of good appearance. There were no attendants and only a few besides the immediate family were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Hornberg remained here until Thursday morning, when they left for Milwaukee and will immediately go to housekeeping in a completely furnished home at 190 Arter avenue. The bride of last Wednesday was in Milwaukee several days, and selected much of the furnishings. She is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Rhordanz and is numbered among our city's most accomplished young ladies. A graduate from the Normal full course in 1908, she had since taught in the public schools of Menasha with marked success.

Mr. Hornberg is a comparative stranger here, but those who met him were very favorably impressed. Congratulations and best wishes are extended the happy pair.

GREAT FAIR NEXT WEEK IMMENSE CROPS GROWN

Come to Stevens Point, Enjoy the Races and Special Attractions and See the Excellent Exhibits.

At the Stevens Point Fair, August 23rd to 26th, all departments will be filled to overflowing and one of the most successful fairs ever held is promised by the managers. You know half the joy of living is making others happy. Now besides the pleasure you get out of attending the fair, many of your friends will be there, who will like you better if you come and will miss you if you do not. In fact all your pleasures double and you drive away your troubles if you come to the fair, and you cannot afford to stay away. The free attractions alone that will be put on to please the many that will attend are well worth the price of admission, as the management has secured artists of world-renown to put on thrilling and pleasing acts free to everybody. There will also be novelties to amaze and mystify, in both art, science and nature.

Children's day will be Friday, August 26th, when all children under 15 years of age will be admitted at the gate free. On account of the city schools not being in session, it will be impossible to distribute tickets to the children. Therefore, all children will be admitted at the gate free of charge, no ticket being necessary.

The big free attractions will be put on each day of the fair, and the races, for which one of the largest fields of horses ever gathered together in Central Wisconsin will compete, will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The children's free day, on Friday of next week, is not alone for the children of Stevens Point, but for the entire county and all will be made welcome. Children, you from the villages and townships, as well as from the wards of the city, get ready to come and have a good time.

Prices of admission for the fair this year will be as follows: Adults, single admission, 25 cents; children, 6 years and under 15 years, 15 cents; rigs, single and double, and automobile, single admission, 25 cents; grand stand, 25 cents; infield 10 cents; adult season tickets, $1.00; children season tickets, 50 cents.

The Oil Property Sale.

Negotiations for the sale of several oil producing properties in Oklahoma, in which a number of Stevens Pointers are interested, are still pending, although it had been expected everything would be closed up several days ago. The sale, when consummated, which it no doubt will be before the return of Messrs. Haddock, Frost, Rood, Brennan and Foster from New York, will bring several hundred thousand dollars to Stevens Point.

GOOD MAN PASSES AWAY

Ferdinand Styke, an Old Resident of Eau Claire, is Buried in Knowlton Cemetery Last Thursday.

Ferdinand Styke, for several years a resident of Portage county, died at St. Mary's hospital, Wausau, Sunday, Aug. 15, from the effects of a surgical operation. He was surviving a few hours after being operated upon. Mr. Styke was 74 years old, from which pneumonia he suffered, and a gathering formed in the funeral cavity.

He was born in Germany in 1846 and was also married there. In 1882 Mr. Styke and wife came to America, locating in Oshkosh, where they made their home for some years and from there they moved to the town of Eau Claire, this county, where they continued to reside until a short time ago. Off late they had lived in and near Dancy to be near their children in their declining years. Mr. Styke was a gentleman well liked by everyone, honest and industrious, and was a model husband and father. Besides the widow he leaves one son, Herman, and a daughter, Mrs. Herman Janz, both of Dancy, and a stepson, Charles Nitz of Eau Claire. Two brothers survive him, Herman Styke, Sr., of Eau Claire, and Fred Styke of Oshkosh, and one sister, Mrs. Thom of Oshkosh.

The funeral was held from the German Lutheran church at Dancy last Thursday afternoon and was very largely attended. Rev. Ristow of Auburndale officiated and the remains were laid to rest in Knowlton cemetery.

The pallbearers were his son Herman and stepson, Charles Nitz, Herman Janz, Herman Styke, Jr., William Styke and Fred Nitz.

Those who attended the funeral from away were Fred Styke, Mr. and Mrs. Thom and daughter, Mrs. Albright, of Oshkosh, Emil Daeppling and wife of Chicago, and Herman Nitz of Indiana.

There is another good citizen who has passed to his eternal reward.

Local Teams Are Losers.

The Flower Paper Co. base ball team went to Amherst last Sunday afternoon and played the local club. Amherst has a very strong aggregation, so strong, in fact, that they came out first last by a score of 6 to 3. Dr. Torason, who recently located in our neighborhood village for the practice of dentistry, and left with the home team, made several wonderful catches. He is also a good batter and did all around star work.

J. J. Neuberger took his nine to Ogdensburg on the early Green Bay train Sunday morning and came home that night. In the meantime they were engaged in a hot contest with an equal number of Ogdensburg representatives in the great national game and lacked only three scores of winning out. The final result was: Ogdensburg 5, Stevens Point 6.

J. P. Malick and a Peoria Business Man

Visit Buena Vista District and See Big Yields.

S. N. Hatfield, a prominent business man of Peoria, Ill., was in town a few hours last Friday while returning in his automobile from a trip to the lakes near Minocqua. Mr. Hatfield is interested in drainage lands and was especially anxious to inspect the Buena Vista district, in which much Peoria capital is invested. J. P. Malick accompanied him to the "big marsh" and the immense crops they saw was a revelation to both of them. Mr. Malick has been on earth several years and devoted a good part of that time to practical farming, but he frankly admits that he has never before seen such a bountiful yield of wheat, oats and other small grain. Much of it is cut and ready for the threshers. Reports of fire in the district were evidently exaggerated, the damage from this cause being almost wholly confined to the south end, in the vicinity of Kellner postoffice.

Brewery Team Runs Away.

A delivery team belonging to the Stevens Point Brewing Co. made a lively dash Tuesday morning. Starting from in front of Chas. Helm's green house, on Main street, they ran to the corner of Main and Reserve streets, where an effort was made by a pedestrian to stop them, causing the runaways to turn upon the E. McGlathlin cement walk, damaging it somewhat, and then the picket fence was made much the worse for coming in contact with the heavy wagon. About this time one of the horses fell, and the team was caught. We are not positive to just how our brother editor stands on the question of county option, but feel certain that he does not approve of having wet goods delivered in his vicinity in so unceremonious a manner.

Their Annual Social.

The annual ice cream social by the members of St. Joseph's congregation will be given on Father Ehr's lawn next Friday afternoon and evening, Aug. 19th, and with favorable weather the usual large crowd is expected. Besides ice cream, other refreshments will be served and the occasion will be enlivened by music from the Union band.

At Rest in Parish Cemetery.

The remains of Raymond Conway, the twenty year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. H. Conway, who met with an accidental death at Byron on Tuesday afternoon of last week, arrived here Thursday morning. Services followed at St. Stephen's church, after which the remains were interred in the parish cemetery. The funeral party was met at the depot by many relatives and friends. Raymond was a bright boy, and his playmates, schoolmates and acquaintances in Stevens Point, where he resided until the family moved to Byron a few months ago, all deplore his untimely and sad death. Speaking of the accident the Grand Rapids Reporter said: "While playing with other boys in a large pile of pulp wood about 10 feet high, started the wood to rolling and he jumped to the ground in hope of saving himself, landing upon the trunk of a tree which struck him in the back of the head, killing him instantly. His father was one of the first to the scene of the accident and found that the accident happened as stated above. When he reached the scene of the accident the boy was dead." The pallbearers were Theo. McCarr, Myron Kelly, Angus Wolferschlager, Alfred Houlehan, DeLloyd Krems and Myron Peterson.

Camping Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Anderson and Mrs. Helga Alf and Royal, were visitors at "Camp Seidom-In," at Webster, Tuesday.

Hilma and Edna Anderson, of Syrus, Minn., and Mrs. Stoner Virum, are visitors at "Camp Seidom-In," at Webster for a few days.

John N. Davis, L. P. Moen, Adam Koh and Chas. Nelson left for Mercer, Iron county, last Sunday, to enjoy a "camping" fishing trip.

Rev. J. A. Stemen and son, Russell, are spending this week at the M. E. Means summer resort at Hazelhurst, leaving last Friday, and expect to have a fine outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Hars Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Johnson, Mrs. Bertha Lee, Emil Neumann, John Schmitt and Sam Anderson were guests for a few hours at Webster, Sunday.

T. L. N. Port, the Citizens National bank's assistant cashier, is taking his annual vacation of two weeks and will spend part of the time in a camping trip up the Wisconsin river.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Duncan spent today at Waupaca, Wis., making arrangements for a cottage which they and their guests expect to occupy during the next couple of weeks.

Miss Irma Schulhof, of Fond du Lac, has been visiting with Stevens Point friends for a few days, and is at present a guest at the Krems camp at Webster.

KNOWLTON.

Chas. Jauneschek spent Sunday at Milwaukee.

A. Feit was a business visitor in Chicago a few days recently. C. E. Guenther returned Monday night after a week at Chicago and Milwaukee.

Eugene Hein and Henry Halverson of Stevens Point are camping on Twin Island for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. E. C. Beadle has returned after a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Johnson at Chippewa Falls.

He Was Discharged.

Joe Cherwonka, a former saloon-keeper in the town of Alban, was recently arrested on complaint of one Carl Becker, charged with selling liquor to a minor. Cherwonka was arraigned before Justice Park, Tuesday forenoon, J. R. Puffer, of the firm of Sicklesteel & Puffer, appearing in his behalf, while Dist. Atty. Nelson represented the state. The complaining witness did not appear, and the defendant was given his liberty on paying the costs, amounting to about $11.

Valuable Properties Traded.

The Summit House at Amherst Junction and the Chas. Rickman farm property near Auburndale, each valued at $9,000, traded ownership last week, the deal being made by Chas. F. Childs of Amherst. H. J. Koplien, the hotel man, receives in exchange for his property at the Junction the valuable real estate formerly owned by Mr. Rickman and all machinery, crops, stock, etc., on the place. It is expected that the actual transfer will take place within a few days.

Mr. Childs has done quite a stroke of business in the real estate line since returning to this county from Missouri last June, his deals amounting to over $40,000.

AUG. 30-31, SEPT. 1 AND 2

These Are the Dates for the Portage County Fair to be Held at Amherst

—Arrange to Go.

Your attention is directed to the advertisement of the Portage County Fair, which will be held at Amherst Aug. 30-31, Sept. 1 and 2. President Peterson and Secretary Johnson have determined to make this year's exhibition a record one and with favorable weather their hopes will be realized. The Union band of this city, one of the best musical organizations in the state, has been engaged. Besides a large exhibit of live stock, agricultural products, fancy goods, etc., visitors may witness good games of base ball, exciting horse races and see several other open air attractions.

People who have attended the Amherst fair other years have always felt fully repaid, and we are sure they will be even better satisfied with the 1910 exhibition.

Business to Close.

The Edwards-Ihrig company, manufacturing caskets, mattresses and springs, at Oshkosh, in which a number of local dealers throughout the state are interested as stockholders, will retire from business, closing up its affairs as soon as all obligations are met, ceasing to operate its plant. At a meeting of the stockholders and directors, Edward W. Ihrig was appointed trustee, and he will proceed immediately to the task of closing up the affairs of the business.

Unsuccessful Hold Up.

A bold attempt was made to hold up the Cole savings bank at Fond du Lac, last Friday, but a traveling man ran out the front door before the robber could get a drop on him. The hold up man then endeavored to escape, but was later captured. At the jail he gave the name of A. G. Crane, Milwaukee, but investigation showed him to be a special agent for the Security Fire Insurance Co., Davenport, Ia., with rooms at 159 LaSalle street, Chicago, and his name is H. E. Cornell, his father being a well-to-do hardware merchant of that city. His "policy" was very crude and he was evidently endeavoring to introduce a "new line."

Visit to Boyhood Scenes.

Wm. and Ethan A. Harris, of Long Prairie, Minn., spent the last three days of the week in Stevens Point, visiting among boyhood friends and old acquaintances. "Bill," by which abbreviated appendix we all knew him, went west over thirty years ago, and had not been back to the old home in a quarter of a century, while Ethan, or "Seneca," by which title he was better known in the days when he attended or ran away from the old white school, made his last previous visit here eighteen years ago. Both are prosperous farmers, the latter being a bachelor, and resides with the former, their farms adjoining and both are worked as one. It is a pleasure to state that the Harris brothers are among the many Stevens Point boys who have made good in other parts.

Thousands Attend Show.

Buffa Bill's Wild West show was presented to one of the largest crowds that ever assembled beneath a canvass in Stevens Point, the estimated attendance in the afternoon being between 9,000 and 10,000. People came from all parts of the county, as well as from neighboring cities and towns, and more automobiles traversed our streets that day than would ordinarily be seen in a year. Our hotels and restaurants were taxed to their utmost to provide for those who came from outside, but no one went away hungry, if he had the price. The show was all it was advertised to be, but many were disappointed on account of having no street cars. There was a performance of the three woodpeckers, the performance of the afternoon, but for me person, or more persons than one, after their arrival at the management, included in the program a singing performance. Under the circumstances the attendance at the latter could not but be large, and the program was but short. C. C. Clark announced that his father, Mr. Clark, was a physical quack, a quack of a bearing to a remarkable degree.

MRS. REMINGTON DIES

Widow of Pioneer Physician Passes Away Tuesday—Leaves Three Daughters.

A telephone message from Westfield Tuesday announced the death of Mrs. C. W. Remington, widow of a pioneer Stevens Point physician and mother of Mrs. Miller G. Wert. She died yesterday noon following a general decline caused by old age. Mrs. Remington was of Scotch ancestry and was born in Scotland or in the eastern part of the United States, shortly after her parents emigrated to this country.

Dr. Remington first practiced medicine in this city in the latter '60's or early '70's, returning here about 25 years ago and remained until 1892, when he and his wife moved to Westfield. The doctor died in that village twelve years ago.

Part of the time since Mrs. Remington had been at "Wagon Veterans" Home near Waupaca, but went back to Westfield four years ago to live with a friend, Mrs. McWilliams, at whose home she passed away.

The surviving members of the family are three daughters, Mrs. Wert in this city and the others at Seattle, Wash., and Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Wert will go to Westfield tomorrow to attend the funeral, which will be held Thursday afternoon, with interment beside her husband. The deceased lady will be kindly remembered by many of our elder residents.

Don Hall and Mr. Rardin Speak.

Don C. Hall, one of the four Republican candidates for state senator in the 21st district, delivered an address at court house park last Thursday evening. It was expected that the Union band would give a weekly concert that night, but because of Buffalo Bill's show deciding to give an exhibition, the concert was called off. This served to greatly lessen the attendance and only a small crowd was present. Mr. Hall is a good speaker, a man of commanding presence and made a favorable impression upon all who heard him.

He was followed by Wesley M. Rardin of Butler, Kentucky, who came north last spring to manage Mr. Hall's campaign. Mr. Rardin devoted his remarks to the county option question, speaking from actual experience, and gave facts and figures to show that county option has proved a moral and financial wrong where it has been tried out in Ohio, Kentucky and adjoining states.

Both speakers expect to again address a Stevens Point audience before the close of the campaign, when it is hoped that a large crowd will turn out to hear them.

Operation for Appendicitis.

Miss Rose Ostrowski, a young lady of eighteen, a daughter of Geo. Ostrowski of Hull, was operated upon for appendicitis at Mercy hospital last Monday. The surgical work was performed by Drs. D. S. Rice and von Neupert, Jr., of this city, and E. M. Rice of Kewaunee. It was a very serious case as Miss Ostrowski had been a constant sufferer for several weeks, but her condition is favorable today and early recovery is looked for.

THEY MUST WATCH OUT

Democrats in This County Must Vote Their Party Ticket at the Coming Primary Election.

As people generally and voters in particular are getting more and more interested in the coming primary election, and it should be the duty of every Democrat to do his part so that the party will not fail to get the required 20 per cent. vote in county, district and state, some figures and facts at this time cannot fail to be interesting to all. At the election two years ago John A. Aylward, Democratic candidate for governor, received 165,977 votes in the state and 2,056 in this county. Twenty per cent. of this would be 32,195 in the state and 411 in the county. At the 1908 primary a total of 566 votes were cast for the two Democratic candidates for U. S. senator, Brown and Hogg, and 320 for the two Democratic candidates for nomination as governor, Aylward and Schmitt. It will be seen, therefore, that the Democrats of Portage county must pull about as large a vote for their party candidates on the 6th of September as they did two years ago, that they cannot afford to remember their friends on the other side by voting the Republican ticket, no matter how strong the persuasion. The Republicans must cast at least 654 votes in the county at the primary to get within the 20 per cent. limit.

Below is given the vote cast by both parties at the primary in 1908 for the candidates who had support in the district respective tickets.

United States Senator—Clark, 1,000; Hatten, 500; Stephens, 400; McGovern, 200. Cook's plurality, 340.

Sheriff—Berry, 1,000; Chan, 700; Hall, 400; Kelley, 200. Berry's plurality, 200.

The Sunday School Lesson for Next Sunday.

By W. H. Fuller

Among the very last incidents in the life of Jesus before his arrival in Jerusalem on the Sunday of Passion week, are of the lesson which now claims our attention. The material for study (Matt. 20:17-34) divides itself naturally into three sections. The first three verses record another prediction by the Savior of the tragic events which are so soon to end his life. He had before told his disciples, soon after Peter's confession, that he must "go to Jerusalem and suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and the third day be raised up." (Matt. 16:21) Again, after the incident of his transfiguration, he reminded his followers that the day of his death at the hands of wicked men was drawing near. It is not at all surprising that such an event should hold a large place in the thought of Jesus, and that he should repeat again and again his prediction of the awful catastrophe. But it was of special importance that the disciples should not be permitted to forget what was going to happen, lest the hope of a temporal Messiah should again spring up in their minds. On this occasion Jesus seems to see more clearly the details of that dark tragedy. "Behold," he says, "we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests and scribes; and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him unto the Gentiles to mock, and to scourge, and to crucify; and the third day he shall be raised up."

In Mark we are given a more vivid picture of the conditions under which Jesus uttered these words. The Master, instead of walking with the disciples, goes before them alone. His manner was so unusual and strange that amazement and fear seized upon the little group of followers. Noticing this, Jesus calls the disciples aside and explains his attitude with the prediction above quoted. It would seem as though by this time the twelve would be sufficiently impressed with the experiences through which their Lord was about, to forget themselves and to lay aside every selfish and worldly ambition.

But what is our surprise to read in Luke's account that "they understood none of these things; and this saying was hid from them, and they perceived not the things that were said." In illustration of the persistent self-seeking spirit of the disciples, we are told of the ambitious request of James and John. There is an interesting variation in this story as told in Matthew and in Mark. The latter represents the two men, who were brothers, as coming directly to Jesus with their request for exalted positions in the coming kingdom. Matthew says that their mother, the wife of Zebedee, whose name according to some authorities was Salome, mediated for the sons. The fact doubtless is that the fond mother had long cherished in her heart the fond hope that her boys might some day be promoted to high station in the kingdom of which the Master spoke so often, but the nature of which Kingdom she so little understood. Whether she or her sons actually voiced the request matters not so far as the truthfulness of the account is concerned.

From our point of view, of course, it seems most unbecoming that such a petition should be presented so soon after the Master had foretold his sufferings and death. But we should not judge the disciples and their mother too harshly. We must remember the grounds which had been furnished for their hope. Had not Jesus on repeated occasions favored James and John, together with Peter, by forming them into a little inner circle, and permitting them to accompany him where no others were allowed? Thus it was when the Savior raised the daughter of Jairus, and later when he went into the mountains of transfiguration. Was it not reasonable for them to suppose that when their Master set up his throne to become Israel's king, he would place these favored disciples among his very highest officials?

But alas! the fond illusion of the disciples made no allowance for the cross that must precede the crown. And so Jesus reminds them in his response to their request: "Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink the cup that I am about to drink?" This, we know, was the cup of suffering and death. Whether James and John so understood it or not, they were quick to answer, "We are able." Doubtless they spoke better than they knew, and they certainly did not realize the full content of their Master's words when he said: "My cup indeed ye shall drink."

But in later years experience came to these brothers that must have been in them the memory of that prediction. James, the first martyr among the Apostles, fell a victim to the sword of Herod Agrippa I (Acts 12:1), while John suffered exile and other forms of persecution when Nero attacked the church. In short, Jesus tried to impress upon the same brothers the great lesson that life's highest honors come at a fearful cost. Ours not to be honor seekers nor place hunters, but servants. The teaching he sought on every possible occasion to clinch in the minds of his hearers. At this time he passed it on to the next of his followers who became very important when they overheard James and John seeking an office at the hands of Jesus. Their anger, however, could hardly be called righteous wrath over the unseemly conduct of the Zebedee's sons; rather did they resent the attempt of the two disciples to work in ahead of themselves. Hereupon Jesus pointed out to the twelve the contrasting conditions of greatness in the Gentile world and in his Kingdom. By the more worldling the sign of greatness is found in the ability of a man to lord it over others; to make them in every possible way to contribute to his own enrichment and pleasure. In the Kingdom of God, on the other hand, he is greatest who serves most. Jesus fully exemplified this ideal, for he "came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

How anxious he was to get this truth ingrained in the very fibre of his disciples' thought, and to make it dominant in their lives, appears in the foot-washing incident as related in John 13. If he, their Lord and Master, hesitated not to perform for them such menial service, they surely ought to be ready to keep themselves in the serving attitude one toward another. More and more the world recognizes the truth of this teaching that service is the condition of true greatness. The men and women who live in history to be honored, are those who have given themselves in the service of some noble cause. Every self-seeker will sooner or later find his place in the gulf of oblivion. Selfishness, while all too prevalent today, is stamping itself as never before with the disgrace which it deserves.

Our space is too limited to permit a discussion of the third section of the lesson, which tells (verses 29-34) of the healing of two blind men.

May His Prayers Be Answered.

Mosinee Times: The editor received a free pass to the Stevens Point Fair this week, and by gum if we can raise the price of a railroad ticket down and back, hanged if we don't go. It's one of the best agricultural shows in the state and everybody that can ought to attend. Some one come in and pay a subscription between now and then and you will make us happy.

Sounds Good To Us.

John Glennon of Stevens Point, was in the city a few days ago renewing old acquaintances and friendships. Ed. Glennon, his brother, is editor of the Stevens Point Gazette, whose thirty-third birthday has just been celebrated. The Gazette is brim full of news and brains and snap all the time and it certainly deserves its success. It is splendidly patronized because of its worth and its quality as a newspaper. There isn't an old fogey word or line in it. Its always clean and good.—Wausau Sun.

After a Short Illness.

Mrs. Mary Young, a former Stevens Point lady, died at her home in Eau Claire on the 8th inst. after an illness of only a couple of days. Mrs. Young, while a resident of this city, resided at 1018 Normal avenue, and was much esteemed by neighbors and all who shared her acquaintance. The remains were taken to Oakdale for interment beside her husband, who passed away some years ago. She is survived by three children, Miss Belle Young, who has been teaching at Tomahawk; Mrs. Rudolph Nelson, of Chicago, and Sam T. Young, a postal clerk on the Soo, who makes Eau Claire his headquarters.

A DEMOCRATIC YEAR.

You Democrats of little faith and weak knees, are you aware that this is a Democratic year, to be specified with a big D?

Do you know, or realize, that the Democrats are going to be in control of the next Congress and that history will be made at that session?

Do you realize that in Wisconsin the Democratic party is mighty liable to sweep the state clean this fall, elect a governor and other state officers? Well this is liable to happen if you Democrats will stand by your guns and not follow off some will-o-the-wisp candidate or theory.

This is certainly a Democratic year, and everything points to this fact. There are dissensions in Republican ranks that will demoralize the party, and the people are thoroughly dissatisfied with existing conditions. From all sections of the country come reports that tend to show an unusual political disturbance and an upheaval is sure to follow with the result that the people will arrive at a sane view of the situation and realize that the Democratic party is the only source through which they can seek redress and right their wrongs.

The Democratic members of Congress, with possibly a few exceptions, have shown that they stand for all that is best in politics, and for the good of the people, and this has added greatly to the strength of the party. With a record of clean actions and the best interests of the people at heart there is every reason to believe that the public is coming to the view point of regarding the Democratic party as something more than a political machine, and that it is the only means through which the great wrongs that have been forced upon the people through years of Republican misrule and trust domination can be righted.

Democrats, you every have reason to feel proud of your party and of the record of most of your representatives in Congress and it behooves you to get out and do some strenuous work this fall to the end that results may be accomplished. Do your duty and this will surely prove a Democratic year.—Antigo News Item.

Wisconsin Democracy confronts a crisis. Chapter 477, laws of 1909, prevents any party nominee from being placed on the party ticket, unless there shall have been cast twenty per cent. of the party vote in the election district at the primary. The law reads as follows: "1. If all candidates for nomination for any one office voted for on any party ballot shall receive in the aggregate twenty per cent. or more of the vote cast for nominee of such party for governor at the last general election, the person receiving the greatest number of votes at such primary election as the candidate of such party for such office, and his name as such candidate shall be placed on the official ballot at the following election."

2. If all the candidates for nomination for any one office voted for on any party ballot shall receive in the aggregate less than twenty per cent. of such vote cast at such last general election, no person shall be deemed to be the party nominee for such office, but the person receiving the greatest number of votes at such primary as the candidate of such party for the office shall be deemed an independent candidate for such office, and his name shall be placed on the official ballot in the column of individual nominations and he shall be denominated in such column as "independent."

A strong minority party is a necessity for the good of the state. This law passed by the last legislature, by the dominant party, now threatens to destroy such a party in Wisconsin. Good citizenship, as well as party patriotism demands the preservation of such a party; and to secure such end, demands that twenty per cent. of the Democratic vote be polled at the primary. Therefore, Democrats should make it a point to vote at the primary and vote the Democratic ticket.—Wausau Pilot.

BELONGS TO NO FACTION

Statement From D. I. Sickelsteel, Candidate for the Republican Nomination for State Senator.

To the Electors of the Counties of Portage and Waupaca, being the twenty-first senatorial district:

Gentlemen:—A short time ago I announced that I was a candidate for the nomination for the office of State Senator on the Republican ticket at the primaries to be held September 6 next. The campaign has been progressing for some time and is now rapidly drawing to a close and I desire at this time to make known to you my position upon various questions which are being discussed among the electors.

I have always been a Republican and believer in the principles and doctrines advocated by the Republican party. As you are all well aware, under the provisions of the primary election law the candidates who shall be nominated at the primary for the various state offices and for senate and assembly, together with those senators who hold over, shall meet at the capitol at Madison at 12 o'clock noon on the fourth Tuesday in September of this year and that they shall proceed forthwith to formulate a state platform for their party and elect a state senatorial committee and transact such other business as may properly come before them; so you will see by this provision that the platform of the Republican party, as well as that of the other political parties, will not be formulated until the fourth Tuesday of September of this year and it would be presumptuous on my part to lay down a platform of the Republican party. The party is greater than any one man and when the party by its duly elected representatives shall have adopted their platform, I pledge you that if I am nominated and subsequently elected I will stand by the principles laid down in the platform and shall endeavor to see that those principles are carried into effect by due and proper legislation.

As to the election of United States Senator I shall stand by the primaries, and if I am nominated and elected I shall support the candidate whom the Republican party at its primaries shall select as the party candidate.

I am in favor of legislation for a uniform system of good roads. I do not belong to any faction, clique or combination and will be absolutely free and untrammelled in all my actions, using my best judgment for the promotion of the highest interest of this district and of the state at large.

I favor legislation which will give municipalities full and ample power to govern themselves in all matters which pertain to their own local welfare, and I am therefore opposed to the centralization of power.

I shall endeavor to visit every portion of this senatorial district and to meet as many of the electors as I possibly can and those of you whom I do not have the pleasure of meeting personally I take this opportunity to respectfully solicit your votes at the primary election to be held on Tuesday, Sept. 6, 1910. I am respectfully yours, D. I. SICKELSTEEL.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

The Meaning of Both Local Option and County Option Should Be Understood by Voters.

How many voters in the state can answer these questions: What is county option? What is local option? How do the two differ?

With the primary election but a few days off, when the voters will have their only opportunity of expressing their views on this important question when they cast their ballot for their candidates for assembly and the state senate, it is important that all should fully understand the provisions of the present local option law and the proposed county option bill. Here are simple, plain definitions of the two:

Local option.—In 1859 the legislature of Wisconsin passed the present local option law. By its terms, any town, village or city in the state may determine for itself whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be licensed therein. Elections can be held each year if petitions are filed, signed by ten per cent. of the total number of votes cast at the last general election in such town, village or city, for governor. On the filing of such petition, it becomes the duty of the clerk to give notice for such election and if a majority of the votes cast at this election in such city, village or town be against license, then no license shall be granted to deal or traffic in intoxicating liquors until another election is held reversing such election.

County option.—The county option bill provides that the electors of a county may by vote determine whether or not license shall be granted anywhere within the county permitting the manufacture, sale and dealing in malt and spirituous liquors. But the bill further provides that, in the event the county should vote "wet," notwithstanding this majority vote of the people in favor of granting license, that if any town, village or city in the county should, by a majority of its voters, vote against license, then no license shall be granted to such town, village or city, no matter how the people of the county as a whole may have voted. If, however, a majority of the electors of the county as a whole should vote "dry" or no-license, then regardless of the large majority of the electors of any town, village or city in favor of license, no license could be granted to such town, village or city because a majority of the electors of the whole county had voted "dry."

If the majority of the people of a county vote "wet," no matter how large such majority may be, the county is not "wet," for any town, village or city located therein is "dry" if it itself has given a "dry" majority. If the majority of the people of a county should vote "dry," the whole county is "dry," regardless of how the majority of the citizens of any town, village or city therein may vote, and the entire county, including all towns therein that may vote "wet" must remain "dry."

These systems differ in that one is option and the other is not. Under local option the law follows the expression of the voters and all territory voting wet is wet and all territory voting dry is dry, but all territory voting wet is not permitted to be wet. This is not true option, for option means choice, and towns voting "wet" under county option have no choice whatever if they happen to be located in a "dry" county. Such county option is prohibition, and the infliction of prohibition upon any unwilling city or community is sure to be followed by demoralization, lawlessness and hypocrisy. It means illicit selling under the worst known conditions, the "blind pig" and the boot-legger.

The present local option law has been on the statute books of Wisconsin for twenty years and has given general satisfaction. It is true option. Any town, city or village may decide for or against the saloon for itself. It is the adoption of the home rule principle that every town, village or city, as political municipal units, shall have this opportunity to determine for themselves the manner in which the social habits and conduct of the people, so far as they may affect the general community, shall be regulated.

Mrs. J. H. Tooman and little daughter and Mrs. Chas. Bloom and little daughter, all of Racine, have been visiting at the home of their aunt, Mrs. J. A. Murat, for a few days. The ladies and their cousin, Miss Stella Murat, spent Tuesday at the home of John Een in the town of Amherst.

No less than four former residents of Portage county are now engaged in the hotel business at Rhinelander and all are meeting with deserved prosperity. Mrs. Chas. Chaffee owns and manages the Rapids House; Mike Bronk is proprietor of the Hilber House; Aug. Fliss is constantly reminded of his native city through the name of his hotel, the Stevens Point House, and Theo. Bigelow caters to the wants of Soo railroad men at his hostelry, the Clifton House.

Rev. F. A. Nimits, who has been making Sheboygan his home for the past few years, has purchased the residence on Church street now occupied by A. E. Bourn and family, and will return here to reside some time in the future, but probably not for several years, when he gets ready to retire from the ministry. Both Mr. and Mrs. Nimits have a warm feeling for Stevens Point and our people, and want to again live in this city. The property was bought from J. R. McDonald for a consideration of $1,600.

Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Wheel, of Rumford Falls, Maine, left for their eastern home Tuesday morning after a week's visit among old friends in this city and at Plover. The doctor was located here a year or two and also practiced medicine in our neighboring village for a time, but returned to New England in 1898 and has since been located at Rumford Falls, a prosperous paper manufacturing city of 8,000 people. They were guests at Dr. Southwick's during their short stay in the city and had the opportunity of again greeting many old friends.

Geo. Vicker, a former well known Stevens Point, but who has made Superior his home for a number of years, where he is engaged in business and meeting with excellent success, has been visiting among relatives and friends in the city and vicinity.

J. A. Smith, of Milwaukee, arrived here last Sunday in his automobile and visited a couple of days at the home of his brother-in-law, J. W. Dunegan. Mrs. Smith has been a guest of her sister for the past week and will remain for a longer visit in this city and at Waupaca lakes.

Fred C. Somers, who had been spending several weeks on a sight seeing trip and visiting relatives in Massachusetts and Canada, returned last week. He remained here a couple of days, leaving for his home at Merrill Friday evening. Fred will attend Wisconsin University next year.

Geo. Dumas returned home last week from LaCrosse, having completed his summer's work on the Mississippi river. The government is putting in wing dams between that city and Dubuque in order to keep a channel clear for large boats, and George was employed on a "sidewheeler" engaged in hauling supplies.

Mrs. Mathilda Johnson, of New Hope, has been re-committed to the Northern Hospital at Oshkosh, having been pronounced insane by Drs. Laughlin of Resholt, and Rassock of Nelsonville. She is about 50 years of age, and was first sent to the asylum from Douglas county, but was released several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dever returned to Milwaukee today after a visit of about three weeks with the lady's parents, W. E. Langenberg and wife. When alighting from a street car in his home city, Tom slipped and fell, skinning and bruising one of his legs, and he had been under a doctor's care during his stay here.

The following dispatch from Grand Rapids is taken "with a grain of allowance," as it is not believed there is an average crop of grain in any part of the state: The harvest of small grains has begun in this part of the state. To the surprise of many, there having been an extended drought, the yield is one of the heaviest in the history of the region.

L. N. Foster, an attorney at Marshfield, while driving in an auto several days ago, lost a satchel containing clothing and other articles on the highway in Stockton. It was found by an honest farmer and brought to this office Monday, and now Mr. Foster writes, "Many thanks for the attention given to this matter. It pays to advertise in The Gazette."

Mrs. Wm. R. Smith and little daughter and son, Margaret and Clifford, who had been spending the past couple of months visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. Clifford, on Strong's avenue, and also with her husband's parents in Michigan, left on the early morning train today for their home at Kent, Wash., followed by the well wishes of many friends.

Arneid Linder, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Linder, of Mosinee, and Miss Helen Jaeger, of Wausau, were quietly married at Waukegan, Ill., last week, and they will reside at Columbia City, Ind. The groom, whose parents are former Stevens Pointers, has been employed as a linotype operator on the Wausau Record-Herald, and there is a romance connected with the marriage.

The manual training room at the Stevens Point Normal, 24x30 feet in size, will be fitted up in a very attractive manner by the time school reopens in September. A hardwood floor is being laid over the cement, the walls are being plastered, new wainscoting put on and a complete equipment of tables, benches, etc., added. The contract work is in charge of R. V. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mitchell returned from Chicago, the last of the week, where they attended the Knights Templar Triennial Conclave, this being the most notable gathering in the history of that great organization. Mr. Mitchell became a member of California Commandary No. 1 while a resident of Los Angeles, a number of years ago, which commandary took a prominent part in the Chicago events.

B. V. Martin today practically finishes his contract for remodeling the third floor of the High school building, which has been divided into classrooms. As soon as the necessary material arrives he will install a rolling partition and put in blackboards, but this can be done without interfering with regular school work. The plumbing and heating job will be rushed by J. B. Sullivan & Co. and they hope to have it finished early in September.

Dr. Chas. L. Lind, a prominent dentist located at 592 W. Van Buren street, Chicago, is enjoying a couple of weeks' vacation in this section. He visited a few days with his sister, Mrs. J. L. Jensen, going from here to Marshfield for a stay with his brother, Dr. W. H. Lind. The Chicago gentleman and Dr. E. E. Burns of Stanley own a ginseng garden on the outskirts of the latter town and expect to sell several thousand dollars worth of the roots this season.

Miss Elizabeth Skinner will spend the next couple of weeks visiting among friends at Green Bay, Algoma, Neenan and Oshkosh.

Roy Boyd arrived here this morning from his home at Columbus, Ohio, for a visit with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. McPhail.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, who has been spending several days here with the Skinner and Miller families, will return home to Neenan tomorrow.

The rains of the past few days have been most beneficial to pasture and hay lands, lawns, etc., and in many instances good crops of hay will yet be cut.

Miss Evelyn Fox arrived here from Green Bay, last evening, to spend a couple of weeks at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clifford.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Carroll, of Sawnee, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Cleary and Miss Cleary, of Portage, are guests at the home of Mrs. C. Corcoran on Brawley street.

Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Higgins, of Melrose, Jackson county, are visiting at his old home in the town of Stockton, and among numerous friends in the city and vicinity.

Mrs. Nellie Pike Goodrich, of Flint, Mich., arrived in the city a few days ago to visit her mother, Mrs. E. L. Pike, on Normal avenue, and to remain for several weeks.

F. W. Rotnour, advance representative of the DeVoss company, who is in the city today, reports that business was never better with the company than at the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett H. Miles, of Weyauwega, were guests at The Sellers last Monday night. Mr. Miles who graduated from our Normal in 1905, is now principal of the Weyauwega High school.

Mrs. J. Purdon and three daughters have returned to their home at Wahpeton, N. D., after spending several weeks with her sisters, Mrs. Hans Gunderson and Mrs. Andrew Johnson, in this city.

Jas. E. Gardiner, a Stevens Point pioneer, is laid up with gangrene in one of his feet, and as he is well advanced in years his recovery may be slow. Mr. Gardiner has a room over John Roe's saloon on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Booth and little daughter drove down from Marshfield Tuesday in their Maxwell runabout and visited George's relatives over night. Mrs. Booth and the baby returned by train this morning.

Mrs. J. E. Smith, of Powers, Mich., arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and spent a few hours as a guest at the home of Mrs. M. Clifford, accompanying her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. R. Smith, as far as St. Paul last night.

The 21st Wisconsin Infantry, who met in annual reunion here a couple of years ago, will meet at Oshkosh on the 13th and 14th of Sept., and an excellent program will be arranged. It is expected that several from here will attend.

The many friends of Mrs. Helena Bischoff will be sorry to learn that she was seriously hurt last Thursday at Kenosha, where she is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hugo Quandt. Mrs. Bischoff slipped and fell, fracturing two ribs.

John Wright, for several years employed as chef at the Great Northern Hotel, Chicago, arrived here this morning to accept a similar position at The Sellers. Since the local house opened for business a few months ago it has enjoyed a good run.

Will O'Keefe, who was in town from his home near Arnott, Tuesday, reports that blight has struck many fields of potatoes in his section. As nearly all the earlier crops are a failure or very poor, it is a pity that the scourge has fallen upon the farmer's mainstay.

Geo. L. Rogers and son, Everett, returned from Polun and the northern part of Minnesota, Sunday morning. Several weeks had been spent in looking over timber lands in which Mr. Rogers is interested, and which includes many hundreds of acres of valuable spruce.

Mrs. J. H. Tooman and little daughter and Mrs. Chas. Bloom and little daughter, all of Racine, have been visiting at the home of their aunt, Mrs. J. A. Murat, for a few days. The ladies and their cousin, Miss Stella Murat, spent Tuesday at the home of John Een in the town of Amherst.

No less than four former residents of Portage county are now engaged in the hotel business at Rhinelander and all are meeting with deserved prosperity. Mrs. Chas. Chafee owns and manages the Rapids House; Mike Bronk is proprietor of the Hilber House; Aug. Fliss is constantly reminded of his native city through the name of his hotel, the Stevens Point House, and Theo. Bigelow caters to the wants of Soo railroad men at his hostelry, the Clifton House.

Rev. F. A. Nimits, who has been making Sheboygan his home for the past few years, has purchased the residence on Church street now occupied by A. E. Bourn and family, and will return here to reside some time in the future, but probably not for several years, when he gets ready to retire from the ministry. Both Mr. and Mrs. Nimits have a warm feeling for Stevens Point and our people, and want to again live in this city. The property was bought from J. R. McDonald for a consideration of $1,600.

Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Wheel, of Rumford Falls, Maine, left for their eastern home Tuesday morning after a week's visit among old friends in this city and at Plover. The doctor was located here a year or two and also practiced medicine in our neighboring village for a time, but returned to New England in 1898 and has since been located at Rumford Falls, a prosperous paper manufacturing city of 3,000 people. They were guests at Dr. Southwick's during their short stay in the city and had the opportunity of again greeting many old friends.

People We Know

They are Stevens Point People, and What They Say is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly subsiding. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

C. W. Sutton, 823 Main street, Stevens Point, Wis., says: "I am publicly recommending Doan's Kidney Pills in the hope that other persons who suffer from kidney trouble may read my statement and be benefited thereby. I suffered from weak kidneys for several years and tried numerous remedies without finding relief. When I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at Taylor Bros.' drug store, and since using them have had but little trouble from my back and kidneys. I also feel much better in every way."

NIGHT OF EMOTION

When I secured a contract on one of the largest railroads in India I took my wife and little daughter with me and established them in a bungalow on the line. I was away all day, sometimes for days together, but I left plenty of servants at the house and felt no concern as to the safety of my family. My wife, who was troubled with insomnia, slept alone, and our little girl, seven years old, slept in a room with me. In that hot climate it is impossible to keep the doors and windows closed, and when I came in late at night I had no trouble in entering.

One night I went home and, finding the door closed, climbed into my room through an open window. As I did not care to wake Rosie, who slept in a crib in one corner, I took off my shoes before entering and stepped noiselessly. Undressing with the same caution, I got into bed and was soon asleep.

I was awakened by a low growl. Thinking that my big dog Bruin had come into the room, I was about to get up and put him out when I was startled by another growl unlike that of a dog, but strangely resembling some one of the wild animals with which the country abounds. But what sent a thrill of horror through me was that it came from Rosie's crib.

The chamber door opened near my bed—that is, it opened toward me instead of away from me. Here was a possible exit for me if indeed I gave up my child for lost and chose to make an attempt to save my own life. I might slip out of bed and through the door. It is said that self preservation is the first law of nature, and I confess I practically illustrated the saying. Catching sight of two glaring eyes in the corner in which the crib stood I lost consciousness of all but one thing—my own immediate threatened death. Springing from the bed, I pulled open the door, which fortunately stood slightly ajar, slipped through and pulled it shut behind me. At the same instant I heard the sound of a heavy body striking against it and a terrible growl which I now recognized as that of the man eater the tiger of India.

There was nothing to do but hold the door. True, the tiger would not unlash it, but I did not care to take even the most remote chance of letting him into that portion of the house occupied by my wife and the servants. There was a transom above, and very soon glass shattered by the tiger's paw fell on my head. Looking up, I saw his nose protruding, but fortunately the space was too small to pass him. Realizing the fact, he abandoned this point of egress, and I heard the thud of his fore paws on the floor. I expected he would go out at the window, but he did not seem inclined to do so.

Hearing a step behind me, I turned, and there stood my wife in her night clothes.

"Rosie!" I moaned
"What of her?"
"Lost."

Without a word the mother sank in a swoon.

Now comes a surprise in my story, for which whenever I think of it, I lift my eyes to heaven and utter a "Thank God!" Rosie herself came running along the hallway. A few hasty questions and answers explained her presence. She had heard low growls from the tiger under the window before he entered and, terrified, fled to her mother's room and got into bed beside her without awakening her.

Then came servants, but so great is the terror of the night among the natives that when I explained that I had left one in my room most of them fled. My wife received a blow on the head and swooned again, this time through excess of grief.

One feeling now took possession of me—a conviction that I had lost the creature that had saved me, that might have killed me. I directed the servants to take my wife and daughter to their sleeping room and I took them to the room where Rosie had been. I called for my room key and, going to the door, took possession next the window, which the tiger had entered. There was no sign of him, I felt sure he had gone when I saw a light glow far above the window sill. It was the edge of his back. I should have noted that he put his paws on the sill preparatory to jumping through the window, but I could not be a child. I called to the servants to bring me something on which to stand so that I could see into the room, but none of them dared approach. Finally, one braver than the rest threw me a box. Taking it to within a few yards of the window, I mounted it in time to see the beast put his fore paws on Rosie's crib and in this elevated position stand looking about him. There was no time to spare. He would soon see me and come for me. I have never before or since known the perfect pose of nerve with which I pointed my rifle at him, aimed behind the shoulder and fired. The tiger sprang to the ceiling, then fell back dead.

What has since puzzled me is not my own changes and feelings, first horror at the supposed fate of my child, next the all pervading sense of my own danger and lastly fear giving place to a desire for revenge. The most pleasurable sensation I have ever experienced was the sight of the beast springing up and falling dead. I dislike to think that at the bottom of us nature has implanted the same brutal instinct, rage, as that given to the tiger. Nevertheless I have his skin, which I use for a rug and never step on it without a sensation of joy.

YAWNING.

Its Effect Upon the Respiratory Organs and Upon the Heart.
Dr. Emil Bunzl of Vienna, Austria, in speaking of diseases of the throat and remedies, said that yawning had its great value. Yawning has recently been recommended independently as a valuable exercise for the respiratory organs.

"According to Dr. Nuegli of the University of Lucerne," said Dr. Bunzl, "yawning brings all the respiratory muscles of the chest and throat into action and is, therefore, the best and most natural means of strengthening them. He advises everybody to yawn as deeply as possible, with arms outstretched, in order to change completely the air in the lungs and stimulate respiration. In many cases he has found the practice to relieve the difficulty in swallowing and disturbance of the sense of hearing that accompany catarrh of the throat. The patient is induced to yawn through suggestion, imitation of a preliminary exercise in deep breathing.

"Each treatment consists of from six to eight yawns, each followed by the operation of swallowing. It should be added, however, that it is quite possible for deep breathing to be overdone, particularly by persons with weak hearts, and it is at least open to question whether the obstacles to free respiration which the yawning cure is alleged to remove are not useful in preventing the entrance of germs and other foreign bodies."—Washington Herald

KING GEORGE'S REIGN.

Astrologer Daoud Says It Will Be Short and Stormy.

A short and stormy reign for George V. is predicted by S. Daoud, the Washington astrologer. Two years ago, it is said, Daoud foretold the death of King Edward and described the circumstances accurately. Among the things which he foresees in the new king's horoscope is that his reign will last but six and a half years.

"The first five years," Daoud says, "will be among the stormiest in England's history. The last eighteen months, however, will be comparatively fortunate. The coming reign will be terminated by the king's death, which will be a natural one. He will more than once be the object of attempted assassination, but would be murderers will be powerless to harm him.

"There will be trouble in all the British possessions during the second year, especially in India.

"In the third year of his reign there will be a conflict between England and another European power ruled by a kinsman of King George which will precipitate a great war. England will on her own part wage war with this European country. The war will be short and decisive and will result in England's being obliged to make concessions which will deprive her of much of her power.

"Egypt will give King George decided trouble, but will not be able to free herself from English rule during his reign."—New York World

A Curious Will.

Countess Anna Maria Helena de Noailles, a member of one of the historic families of France, has made a curious will which has just been proved. She left her estate at Meads Eastbourne, England, to found "St. Mary's orphanage," laying down the following rules for the education of the girls. No competitive examinations, no study before breakfast, no study after 6 p. m., all lessons to be learned in the morning, no girl to work more than four and a half hours daily. No arithmetic, except the multiplication tables for children under ten. No child with curvature of the spine to write more than five minutes a day until thirteen. Each girl must be certified by two phrenologists as not deficient in conscientiousness and firmness. No child to be vaccinated.

A Machine to Measure Love.

Science is slowly killing romance. The latest invention is an instrument called a pethysmograph for scoring. By testing the warmth of lovers' forearms. The person whose forearms are to be weighed in the balance passes or her arm into a rubber bag which is then drawn tight and filled with water. Names of young men or young women, as the case may be, are introduced and if the name stirs the heart the pulse rises and the indicator mounts up. If the name leaves the subject unmoved the pulse remains stationary. —London Gentlewoman

Quaint Sewing Implements.

An interesting find is reported to have been made by Professor Mestorf, director of the Museum Schleswiger Alters Tuner at Kiel. In the grave of a Germanic woman dating from the pre-Christian era was found a stone box containing a set of sewing utensils, a pair of scissors of considerable weight, a horn knife with an iron blade a shuttle and several thorns, which were used as needles. There was also a stone resembling the so-called "Gendelstein," which was still in use as a flintstone as late as the sixteenth century.

Porto Rico's Pineapples.

Pineapple culture in Porto Rico has given such large returns that many of the insular government officials have bought small plantations, given up their official positions and become independent. Lands have quadrupled in value in some cases. The present acreage on the north shore exceeds 2,000, and it is predicted that it will soon be over 10,000.

MAN AND THE RAT.

The Long Battle Between These Two Conquering Forces.

The dominion of man over the beasts of the field does not yet include the rodents. Aurochs, cave bear and mammoth we put down with stone headed arrows. We have wiped out the buffalo. The lion and the elephant will soon be gone. But still the rabbit of Australia cost the colonies millions a year. Traps, ferrets and poison still fail to make headway against the rats, mice and gophers of the United States. While our animal enemies have become smaller in size, they have grown more numerous. It is as if nature after trying vainly to chastise her insurgent son with a catapult had gone after him with a shotgun.

The fact is that of all warm blooded creatures there are just two that are really dominant, successful, increasing in numbers and range and able to maintain themselves anywhere in the world against all rivals. These two are man and the rats. The genus homo and genus mus go everywhere and eat everything. They are the two creatures that dwell in houses and travel in ships. Each drives its other rivals to the wall, but neither except locally and for brief periods has ever come near to exterminating the other. Civilized man has fought the common rat for 200 years, and the battle is still drawn. —McClure's Magazine.

A KING'S DOWNFALL.

Louis Philippe's Lack of Nerve When the Crisis Came.

Ratonesse Bonde wrote in her diary the following account of the abdication of Louis Philippe of France on the day of that remarkable occurrence.

"An old de-camp of the minister of war who was in the king's cabinet when he abdicated gave me a detailed account of this most signal piece of cowardice. He had reviewed the troops in the carousel on horseback, brightly rouged, when a cry was raised, 'Vive les Faubourgs!' No one had any orders, no one gave any. The mob rushed forward, shouting, 'Vive la garde nationale—vivent les troupes!' and shook hands with the outposts. The king retreated precipitately with his sons, and a lieutenant of the national guard rushed into the palace asking to see him. He was admitted and in the greatest agitation said, 'Your majesty must abdicate.' 'Very well,' says the king. 'In favor of my grandson.' 'No, unconditionally,' says the young and self elected mouthpiece of public opinion.

"Would you believe it? Of all who were congregated round the royal person the only one said 'Go down and head your troops. Fight for your crown and your dynasty.' He was overruled and they all marched out of the palace except the Duchesse d'Orleans, her children and the Duc de Nemours."

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, PIMPLES, AND DANDRUFF.

We desire to say when we took the agency for ZEMO, we are convinced that it was a valuable remedy for eczema, pimples, and dandruff. Yet we must frankly admit that ZEMO has far exceeded expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use.

ZEMO effects its cures by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and be used freely on infants.

With every purchase we give a booklet on skin diseases explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy. H. D. McCulloch Co., druggists.

Last year Great Britain cut its liquor bill $54,000,000, yet nobody died of thirst.

Keep cool and be cool. The mental attitude has much to do with physical condition.

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Changes of water and climate often cause sudden attacks of diarrhoea, and it is best to be prepared. Sold by H. D. McCulloch Co.

The Best Hour of Life

Is when you do some great deed or discover some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R. Pitt, of Rocky Mt., N. C., when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had; I then proved to my great satisfaction, what a wonderful cold and cough cure Dr. King's New Discovery is. For, after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that." Its the surest and best remedy for diseased lungs, hemorrhages, lagrippe, asthma, hay fever, throat and lung trouble. 50c and $1. Trial bottle, free. Guaranteed by H. D. McCulloch Co.

The poor should be remembered this hot weather, for their sufferings are considerable. Ice often means health to the sick and pure milk life for babies, but these are luxuries for which the prisoners of poverty must look to their more fortunate brethren to supply them. There should also be generous public support of the various fresh-air enterprises which do so much toward ameliorating the condition of the poor in a large city during the heated term.

Life On Panama Canal

Has had one frightful drawback—malaria trouble—that has brought suffering and death to thousands. The worms cause chills, fever and ague, biliousness, jaundice, lassitude, weakness and general debility. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. "Three bottles completely cured me of a very severe attack of malaria," writes Wm. A. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C., "and I've had good health ever since." Cure stomach, liver and kidney troubles, and prevent typhoid fever. 50 cents. Guaranteed by H. D. McCulloch Co.

The predicament of two men with their wives who were held into the night off Chicago by the failure of the engine of their gasoline launch, and who were rescued only after the women had sacrificed their skirts as torches, should recommend the lashing of sweeps on the decks of such craft, so that men can help themselves in emergencies. A pair of muscular arms applied to a sweep would soon re-establish confidence after accidents by giving the disabled craft motion enough to creep toward shore.

In buying a cough medicine, don't be afraid to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is sure to follow. Especially recommended for coughs, colds and whooping cough. Sold by H. D. McCulloch Co.

William Lorimer, Senator
From Illinois.

It is said of William Lorimer, Republican boss of Chicago and United States senator from Illinois, that he never forgets a friend or breaks a promise. That is part of the secret of his success in politics. With this is a natural ability to manipulate men. In his personal habits Senator Lorimer is a model. He neither smokes, chews tobacco, drinks nor swears. He is also a member in good standing of the Y. M. C. A. Furthermore, he has a wife and nine children, and no breath of suspicion with regard to his domestic affairs has ever assailed the junior senator from Illinois. Likewise, until the recent disclosures regarding his election to the senate, no hint of unlawful acts has ever involved his good name. Now, according to the alleged confessions of three former members of the Illinois legislature, they were bribed to vote for Mr. Lorimer. Since the charges were made public the senator has been collecting data to disprove them and says he will do so at the proper time.

Senator Lorimer is a native of Manchester, England, and began his career in Chicago as a street car driver. Later he became an employee of the stockyards and at the same time interested himself in politics. As a politician he quickly forced to the front, and for many years he has been the undisputed Republican boss of Chicago. Seven times he was elected to congress and was a member of the house when chosen to succeed Albert J. Hopkins as United States senator. He was elected on the ninety-fifth ballot, fifty-five Republicans and fifty-three Democrats contributing to the result. He took his seat June 18, 1909.

Sugar Men and Uncle Sam.

The surprise of the trial of Charles R. Heike, secretary-treasurer of the sugar trust, was the appearance of Oliver Spitzer, superintendent of the planters of the trust during the years in which the sugar weighing frauds were going on. Mr. Heike, who ranks second in importance to President Washington B. Thomas in the affairs of the sugar trust, in company with five other employees, was indicted last January, charged with defrauding the government. The case is before Judge Martin in the criminal branch of the United States circuit court, sitting in New York city.

CHARLES R. HEIKE.

Spitzer was convicted last December and received a two year sentence at Atlanta. He claimed at the time that he was being made the scapegoat. Spitzer was pardoned by the president through the intercession of Henry L. Stimson, special prosecutor for the government.

Mr. Heike became secretary of the American Sugar Refining company in 1899, and his attorneys lay stress on the fact that the system of fraudulent weighing had been in force two years when he assumed office. He has fought desperately against being put on trial. He has even gone in vain as far as the supreme court of the United States. It is said he is the "highest up" man in the trust that the government will ever get to the bar, and yet it is asserted that he was merely a tool. The directors and officers under whom he acted cannot be brought to justice. It is said, because they covered their tracks too well.

TOURISTS IN BERLIN.

They Should Be Careful in Selecting a Boarding House.

A case has occurred in Berlin showing the unpleasant experiences which may occur to tourists who engage board in a boarding house not well recommended. Three American women were the victims.

In the new part of the town, the so called American quarter, a neat sign of "Pension" attracted the women, and they engaged board there. According to the German custom, they paid the boarding house charges a month in advance. Two days afterward the landlady went to a hospital, and the next day the domestic girl of all work took her departure. Food and service ceased, and the host, a count, moved into the attic for some reason unknown to the Americans.

The Americans protested that their money should be refunded or they should have food and service. The host told them he could supply neither as he had no money. The women consulted their friends and were advised to make the best of the bargain and camp out for the rest of the month.

Some days later the host appeared in their rooms and proceeded to remove the curtains from the windows. The women appealed to an American who happened to be calling, but the only result of his interference was a scuffle with the landlord, who knocked him out with a bunch of heavy keys.

Two of the women then sought police aid at the nearest station, a mile away. The officials laughed at them, telling them it was a private matter and no concern of theirs. In the meantime the landlord returned with two men and took down the curtains, informing the women that he would be back at 5 o'clock the next morning to remove the furniture. The women then sought the aid of the American consul general, who advised them to move out quietly and offered them hospitality for the night. They accepted the offer, but did not get their things away before half past 3 in the morning.

Incidents like this are not rare in Berlin's American colony.—New York Sun

What He Found Out.

An Italian journalist, Signor Tommaso Glioni, has just had some disagreeable experiences. Desirous of knowing something of the lunatic asylums from within, with the object of ameliorating the lot of the insane, he presented himself at the gates of the Cimarosa asylum and asked for an audience of the king of Italy. The attendants showed him the door, and then he ran foul of the police and in the end found himself interned in the asylum. The doctors examined him and, finding him far from tractable, administered an emetic. Then they gave him a shower bath and next vaccinated the enterprising journalist. After that they held a consultation in the presence of the "lunatic," whose bonafides they evidently suspected, and brutally but unanimously agreed that the only treatment in such a case was trepanning for a cancer on the brain. By this time Signor Tommaso Glioni thought the best he could do was to confess. This he did and found himself at the police station. The magistrate, however, released him, observing that he thought the doctors had administered sufficient punishment.

The Trolley In Japan.

Japan has been invited to the trolley. Shades of the summer! From misty dawn until the frolics are astride one may now trolley around Tokyo and from there to Yokohama. No other trolley system on earth offers a more tempting and diversified program for its guests than this trolley ramble, for instance, which visitors to the Japanese capital are now taking at a cost of less than 50 cents. From any corner of Tokyo the trolley deposits one at the Shinagawa suburb, where the rural lines have their city terminus. The equipment is made up of heavy high powered cars, quite similar to those used in the same service in the United States. The different devices about the cars bear the names of patentees and manufacturers familiar to those who overhaul the rolling stock of any American company.—Travel Magazine.

A New Rifle Muffler.

The stir created by Maxim's murderous rifle silencer, which is really a muffler, not a silencer, has brought other inventors into the field. A Moore silencer is chronicled that is said to have many advantages over that of Maxim, not the least of which is its relative cheapness. The ordinance department of the army is now giving it a test. With a considerable crop of "silencers" it is probable that a really effective eliminator of the report of a rifle will eventually be evolved. The next war is thus likely to be fought in a deadly silence, far more terrifying than the roaring of the unmuzzled gun powder of historic battlefields.—New York Press.

A King's Coin Collection.

Victor Emmanuel is considered, and rightly so, an exceedingly clever numismatist. A rather interesting story is told of the manner in which the king, while still little more than a child, acquired a taste for the science of numismatics. One day he received a soldo bearing the head of Pope Pius IX. A little later, finding another, he added it to the first, and in this way he collected fifteen. Meanwhile his father, King Humbert, presented him with about sixty pieces of old copper money, and thus was formed the nucleus of his collection.—McClure's Magazine.

The discovery of defective armor plate in the battleships Utah and North Dakota after the ships had been commissioned has caused agitation in the navy department favorable to a plan for the inspection of the plating of every battleship in service. It is fair to assume that if two battleships could be provided with faulty plates without discovery until the ships were in active service there may be other ships with poor plates that may have escaped detection.

NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT FOR CONSTRUCTION. Circuit Court—Marathon County.

In the matter of the Dancy Drainage District.

Notice is hereby given, that on the first day of August, 1910, the above named court duly made an order upon petition of the commissioners of the above district, authorizing them to make an additional assessment for construction upon the lands included in said district and heretofore assessed, amounting to twenty-five percent of the amount of the original assessment, pursuant to which authority said commissioners have on the 31st day of August, 1910, made and assessed upon each separate description of land included in said district and heretofore assessed a principal sum equal to 25 percent of the amount of the principal of the former assessment made herein, divided into ten equal installments to become due at the same times as the several installments of the first assessment, all with six percent interest from the date of such assessment, which assessment was on August 31st, 1910, confirmed by said court.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, That the amount of such assessment upon any one or more of the descriptions of land included in said district may be paid to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Marathon County, at Wausau, Wisconsin, on or before the 31st day of September, 1910, at two o'clock p. m., and at any time thereafter before the commissioners have entered into a contract to borrow money for said drainage district and issue security therefor based upon said assessment, and said commissioners have advertised for bids for an issue of bonds based upon such assessment, to be received on the 5th day of September, 1910, at two o'clock p. m., and in their intention to make a sale of bonds at such time or as soon thereafter as possible.

LANARK

Miss Anna Kolz is visiting relatives in Stevens Point this week.

Fred Sorenson's children are ill with scarlet fever in a light form.

Threshing is mostly finished, the amount of grain to the acre being very small.

St. Patrick's church is being reshingled. Alfred Wanty is doing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes of Royalton are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hopkins.

A number of young people from here took the teachers' examinations at Amherst this week.

Miss Clara Leahy, who has been visiting friends in Milwaukee for some time, returned home Sunday.

Mrs. James Glennon of Auburndale is visiting with her brother, John Timlin, at her old home here.

William Hearn of Fond du Lac and his mother, Mrs. John Hearn of Farmington, spent Sunday visiting Mrs. Hearn's daughter, Mrs. William Leahy.

Miss Tobin, a former resident of this place, but who now lives at Waupaca, has been in the hospital at Oshkosh for the past week, having undergone an operation for appendicitis. The latest news from there is that he is doing nicely and will be home in about a week.

MECHAN.

John Pascavich of Linwood was a business caller here recently.

When Starks of Belmont visited relatives here one day last week.

The agent for Wilson Bros., remedies, was transacting his line of business here Saturday.

Miss Myrtle Frost of Rudolph is spending the week in this vicinity visiting with friends.

A large number from here attended Buffalo Bill's big show at Stevens Point last Thursday.

Henry Lutz is building a stone silo on his farm. There are others here who are preparing to build this year.

A good many of our boys are working for W. B. Coddington out on the big marsh, cutting brush, clearing land, etc.

Orrin Clendenning has taken his threshing machine to Shantytown, where he expects to have a couple of weeks' work.

Roy Barton of St. Cloud, Minn., is visiting with some of his old schoolmates. Roy lived here a few years ago with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Barton.

A large barn on what is known as the Nick Rosenthal place was entirely destroyed by fire last week Wednesday. A corn crib and small hog house were also burned. The place and buildings are owned by Mike Friday of Stevens Point but are occupied by Ed. Hoffman. The origin of the fire is unknown but it is supposed that it caught from a spark from the chimney. The house, granary and other buildings would have burned also but for the timely arrival and assistance of neighbors and for the fact that the wind was blowing in the opposite direction. Mr. Hoffman had the barn filled with hay, straw and other feed for the winter, which he lost. He also lost a large stack of straw, a good set of work harness, a bay rake and several pigs. The loss is about five hundred dollars. Neither party had any insurance.

ARNOTT.

Raymond Newby spent Sunday with friends at Stevens Point.

Mrs. Margaret Heaney spent Saturday and Sunday at Stevens Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Budzinski are visiting friends at Amherst Junction this week.

E. J. Carley has sold several ears of alfalfa hay. If you are looking for this kind of feed you would do well to see Mr. Carley.

The ladies of the Neumann M. E. church at Arnott will give a chicken pie supper at the home of A. F. Neuman, Tuesday evening, Aug. 23. All are invited.

Those who heard results of the ball game between Stockton and Arnott last Sunday are likely to remark, "Well, I guess the Arnott team did practice after dark, alright." Stockton came here expecting to get the "rubber," but failed, the score resulting 10 to 2 in favor of Arnott. It is thought by many that Stockton had better follow our example in regard to practicing.

Stockton had an "unknown" from Stevens Point who played a star game, but all the other "stars" failed to help him out.

DANCY

Dr. Frank Powell and son Robert of Wausau spent Sunday with Dancy friends.

Percy Cleveland and wife visited over Sunday recently with the former's parents at Grand Rapids.

Miss Martha Kling of Stevens Point is spending a few days at the home of her parents in this village.

Billy Grooms of Rhinelander is spending a few weeks in this village visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Coniff, and other relatives.

The past week G. H. Altenburg of Stevens Point had delivered to him at this place a very handsome new five-passenger Regal touring car.

Miss Alice Dinwoodie, who is a nurse at Hanover hospital, Milwaukee, is spending her vacation in this village with her sister, Mrs. Lon Clements.

The Dancy baseball team defeated the Schiefel team on Sunday, the 7th, by a score of 4 to 3, and defeated the Mosinee Cubs last Sunday by a score of 5 to 13.

Quite a number from this locality were at Stevens Point Thursday in attendance at Buffalo Bill's circus. It is expected that many will go from here to Wausau the 20th to see Ringling Bros.' circus.

E. L. Fisher, who ran a boarding house in this village for some time, moved a few days ago to Stevens Point, where he and his family will follow the same business, having rented the Stevens Point House.

John Marchel, Sr., who was severely injured some time ago by falling from a new building he was erecting on his farm, is getting along very well, being able to sit up occasionally, which is news his many friends will be glad to hear.

Pearl and John Heffron, Jr., of Stevens Point visited a few days the past week in Dancy with the Knoller and Altenburg children. They were accompanied home by Harold Altenburg, Norman and Coniff Knoller and Billy Grooms, all going down to see Buffalo Bill and enjoy an outing.

The funeral of the late Ferd. Styke, mention of whose death will be found elsewhere in the columns of this paper, and which took place from German Lutheran church in this village Thursday afternoon, was one of the largest ever held in this community. It was a fitting testimonial to the high regard in which the deceased was held.

Threshing is well under way now and grains are turning out well considering the extremely dry season. Our neighbor, Daniel Corlett, who is the owner of one of the finest farms in Eau Claire, threshed 1,750 bushels of oats off from 30 acres, which is an exceptionally good yield. Crops through the north part of Eau Claire are fine, which certainly demonstrates that the soil can't be beat for withstanding drought.

Henry Bloompot and Harris J. Harman of Peoria, Ill., and Leo Hein of Stevens Point Sundayed in this village recently, the guests of George Knoller, Jr. Messrs. Bloompot and Harman were on their way to Wausau, near which city they are at present surveying a large tract of swamp lands for the G. D. Jones Land Co. of Wausau, preparatory to draining the same. Harris and Leo were schoolmates at the Bradley Polytechnic Institute, Peoria, Mr. Harman following his father's calling, that of civil engineering.

AMHERST.

Miss Helen Keener is visiting in Chicago.

Wm. Bruner of Almond was in town Saturday.

Mrs. A. P. Peterson is very sick at the present writing.

Miss Skinner of Stevens Point is visiting at L. A. Pomeroy's.

Individual drinking cups on all trains on and after Sept. 1st, 1910.

Mrs. Aug. Milbreit left for Oshkosh Monday to visit among friends.

Mrs. A. C. Peterson and son Andrew have returned from Rhinelander.

Mrs. Orrin Wood and children of Antigo are visiting relatives in town.

Fred Fenski and Fred Milbreit returned from Spokeville, Clark county, Monday.

Amherst and vicinity was well represented at the Buffalo Bill show at Stevens Point.

The Rounds family will hold a reunion at Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Rounds' next Friday.

Miss Alma Peterson will again return to Rosholt as a teacher in the village school.

Otto Faldet was summoned to Iola Saturday by the serious illness of his brother, Theodore.

Mrs. Annie Couch and children, Byron and Anice, are visiting at Grand Rapids and Port Edwards.

Mrs. John P. Peterson and daughter left for Minneapolis, Thursday, for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Larish.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Connie Nelson, who has been seriously ill the last week, is reported gaining.

John F. Kubisiak & Co. are closing out their large stock of farm implements, wagons, buggies, etc., at cost.

Mrs. Maude Rowell is visiting relatives and friends after a long absence, most of which was spent in the Philippinus. The past year she taught school in South Dakota.

Chas. Adams of Whitehall is spending a few days here.

Walter and Will Jensen of Lind Center came up in their automobile Monday.

Dr. W. H. Wilson is making ready to move to Stevens Point, so 'tis rumored.

John Een attended a directors' meeting of the Stockton Insurance Co. at Plover Tuesday.

John Skoglund left for Appleton, Monday, where he will spend the week on International Harvester Co. business.

Herbert S. Nelson and family of Chicago will spend their vacation with Mr. Nelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Nelson. They arrived Saturday.

Remember that the Portage County Agricultural Society will hold its 41st annual fair at Amherst, Aug. 30 and 31, Sept. 1 and 2, 1910. Attractions greater than ever.

G. B. Allen is adding an addition to the store property recently purchased of Dr. A. H. Guernsey, and otherwise improving it. The rooms over the drug store will be fitted up for lodge rooms and will likely be occupied by the Woodmen.

The funeral of Mrs. J. N. Boynton, who died at her home here Thursday, Aug. 11, was held at the M. E. church Sunday at 2 p. m., Rev. R. W. Smith officiating. Mrs. Boynton had been a resident of Amherst 19 years and gained hosts of friends. She leaves to mourn her untimely loss an aged husband, one son, Perry, who is in the drug business with his father, one daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Carey, and two brothers, C. N. Fenton of this village and Andy Fenton of Lanark. Mrs. Boynton was born May 9, 1850.

A message to L. A. Pomeroy Saturday, announced the death of Mrs. Garth W. Cate at Phoenix, Ariz., at 6.30 that morning. Eva Ray Fleming, only child of Geo. W. and Mrs. Fleming, was born on the old Fleming farm, just south of the village, Jan. 14, 1887. She attended the public school here and also was a student at Lawrence University, Appleton. The latter she was forced to discontinue on account of poor health. Dec. 21, 1906, she was married to Garth W. Cate, at Cleveland, Ohio. Most of her married life she lived with her parents, with the exception of a few months at Wausau. Early in the summer of 1908 it was evident that Mrs. Cate needed change of climate, and as soon as her parents could adjust their business affairs the Arizona trip was made. For a time the outlook for her complete recovery seemed good, but the last six months she steadily lost ground and finally, in spite of all that money, medical skill, and loving care could do, she passed away. A later message will inform us of the time of the funeral party's arrival here. The sincere sympathy of the community goes out to these sorrowing ones.

Six Pounds, Two Ounces.

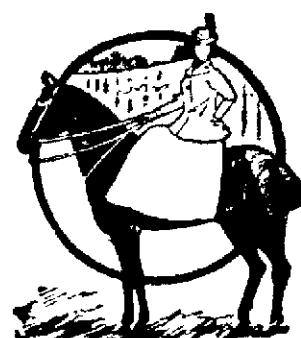

Probably the largest black bass ever caught in the Wisconsin river hereabouts, was landed the first of the week by the twelve year old daughter of John Russell, who lives at Webster. The fish weighed six pounds and two ounces. Little Miss Russell broke her pole and otherwise had a strenuous time, but she finally dragged the monster to dry land.

MAYOR GAYNOR IS SHOT BY ASSASSIN

Discharged City Employee Wounds Gotham Executive in Neck.

TRAGEDY ON BOARD STEAMER

Chief Executive of New York City Badly Wounded by a Discharged City Employee as He Is About to Sail for Europe.

New York.—As he stood on the deck of the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse at the Hoboken pier, about to sail for Europe, William J. Gaynor, mayor of New York, was shot at three times by an assassin Tuesday morning. One of the three bullets struck him in the neck and he fell, seriously wounded. The physicians who first attended the victim said the bullet entered the neck back of the right ear and lodged in the region of the mastoid bone. They added that they believed Mr. Gaynor was not fatally wounded.

Blood poisoning, they said, was the only thing they feared that would prevent the mayor from recovering of his wound. The surgeons will not attempt to extract the bullet, which lodged in the patient's tongue until after he has gained his normal strength.

The assassin was Jules James Gallagher, 440 Third avenue, New York. He was appointed a watchman in the dock department April 7, 1903, and was discharged July 19, 1910, after having been found guilty of neglect of duty and of misconduct. His only explanation of his deed was the statement: "Gaynor has deprived me of my bread and butter." After his discharge he wrote a number of letters to the mayor.

Party Was Posing for Photograph.

Mayor Gaynor and a number of city officials were standing in a group to have their pictures taken. Gallagher quietly walked toward them, drew a revolver and fired three shots. Two of them went wide of the mark, but the third struck the mayor in the neck, and he fell to the deck with the blood spurting from the wound.

Officer Fitzgearing, one of the North German Lloyd guards, was standing near. The assassin lifted the revolver again to fire at his prostrate victim when the German policeman felled him to the deck with a terrific crash from his club. A rush was made for the man, but captain and officers of the liner, with revolvers drawn, fought back the infuriated spectators and police from Hoboken were quickly on the scene.

A score of policemen with naval reserve sailors from the liner were needed to convey the man to jail. Outside the dock gates, where the news spread quickly, a mob of dock laborers and steredores made a rush for the police, one of them actually getting his hands on the prisoner, but they were beaten back.

Mayor Gaynor was carried from the ship on a stretcher and taken to St. Mary's hospital in Hoboken. As he was being borne away he said in a whisper: "Say good-bye to the people." When he reached the hospital he was still conscious, though blood from the wound kept getting into his throat and choking him. Drs. Stewart and Brewer of New York took charge of the case and expressed hope of the mayor's recovery.

Sketch of His Career.

William J. Gaynor was of Irish-English stock and the son of a man who supported Gerrit Smith, the abolitionist friend of John Brown of the Harper's Ferry antebellum period. He was born on his father's farm at Oriskany, near Whitestone, Oneida county, N. Y., in 1851, the soil of which farm was cleared by his struggle for bare necessities on that little farm and Mr. Gaynor's boyhood was one of hard toil.

He studied law in Boston and located in Flatbush, Long Island, where he soon after successfully carried out a reform movement.

Having smashed the political rings of Flatbush, the young lawyer in 1885 changed his place of residence to Brooklyn, in which city "Boss" Hugh McLaughlin had wielded despotic power for a quarter of a century. Mr. Gaynor then studied the great McLaughlin ring, and formulated a plan for the overthrow of the "boss." His great opportunity came in 1889, when the town of New Lots was annexed to Brooklyn. There was a little water company in New Lots known as the Long Island Water Supply company. The McLaughlin ring secretly bought up the company through dummies, for $15,000, and then got Alfred C. Chanin, mayor of Brooklyn, and his associates to make a contract to buy it for the city for about $1,500,000—a profit of $1,485,000.

New York.—Somebody lost a perfectly good penny back in the days when a British king ruled the American colony. It was minted in 1722, and the owner was permanently poorer by that penny, for it was not found until the other day, when Albert Baker picked it up on the Richmond turnpike, Staten Island. The spot where Albert found the old coin is on the line of the stage coaches that used to be run between New York and Philadelphia.

for the ring of more than $1,300,000. Mr. Gaynor denounced the deal as a swindle and said it would not go through if he could prevent it. The mayor and the ring sniled and ignored him. He, however, went about Brooklyn, seeking for some taxpayer who would allow him to use his name as plaintiff in a suit to stop the deal. But none of the leading citizens to whom he applied dared to court the enmity of the powerful McLaughlin machine, the mere mention of which was enough to make a property owner tremble, because everybody knew the "Boss" was vindictive and unforgiving. Mr. Gaynor, however, finally induced one of his old clients, William Ziegler, to allow the use of his name. That suit, carried through every court to the highest, defeated the $1,300,000 water swindle and carried consternation to the ring. Mr. Gaynor was a comparatively poor man, but he paid the whole cost of the fight, $14,700, out of his own pocket. It was a great victory and completely exposed the rottenness of machine politics.

Mr. Gaynor afterward gave the people of Brooklyn another illustration of how they were robbed. The elevated railroads of that city never paid a dollar of taxes, and the officials refused to sell their property for non-payment, although the possessions of every poor delinquent were sold promptly. Mr. Gaynor brought a taxpayers' suit at his own expense, and in the end the companies were obliged to pay their taxes in full, about $1,000,000—another astonishing defeat for the McLaughlin ring, the members of which owned large interests in the elevated railroads.

Mr. Gaynor again defeated the Brooklyn ring by exposing the swindle.

dling bill presented by the McLaughlin officials for the Columbian celebration in Brooklyn. More brass bands were charged for than could be got in Brooklyn and New York combined. A bill for one street stand carried more lumber than was contained in all the stands. He denounced the bill as a swindle and declared the official audit to be a fraud. The ring went to the legislature and had the bill legalized. Mr. Gaynor went to the governor and had the bill vetoed. In spite of the ring, Mr. Gaynor compelled a true audit.

On the State Supreme Bench. In 1893 the people of Brooklyn became fully aroused. The sight of one man whipping the combined forces of political corruption in battle after battle stirred the city profoundly.

A mass meeting asked Mr. Gaynor to run for mayor. He declined, saying that he had worked to create a public sentiment that would drive the ring out of power; that was his object, not to get an office for himself. A few weeks later he was unexpectedly nominated for justice of the Supreme court. He at first refused the nomination, but was finally persuaded to run to help elect Mr. Schieren, the fusion candidate for mayor. The election was a tremendous victory for reform. The standing ring majority of 20,000 votes was wiped out. Mr. Gaynor was elected to the Supreme court by a majority of 57,000 votes, and the whole ticket with him. That was the end of the famous McLaughlin ring; it never got back into power.

The career of Mayor Gaynor since he became the chief executive of New York has been as picturesque as it has been exciting. The limelight of the country has been almost constantly directed at him. His friends declare that he had a way of accomplishing his things in little time.

His famous controversy with W. R. Hearst aroused comment throughout the country. His activities in bringing about reforms in the police department also attracted much attention, and, incidentally, made him many bitter enemies.

The controversy between Mayor Gaynor and Mr. Hearst became intensified as each day the mayor issued a new statement in support of his position or to deny the statements credited to him.

Plowing in Algeria

WE TOOK our ease at our inn, my friend Frampton and I. The road in front of us led where our boat lay, and left-handed to the creek right-handed to the main part of the village, including the church and station. A hedge, just breaking into green, skirted the road, and over its brim we could see a plowman guiding his team leisurely up and down a broad, flat field. The man in his drab corduroys and the horses, a big brown and a gray, made a picturesque group. They gave one, too, the pleasant sense of restfulness an idler feels in watching other men work. In the fulness of my content I murmured something silly about the dignity of labor, which roused my companion from his comfortable silence to retort: "That's because you've never done any." I looked up to where a small, dark speck was rapidly rising in the windy April sky and flooding the air with joyous melody. "Just listen to that lark singing," I said. "Just listen to that signboard creaking! We shall have it down on our heads," retorted my practical-minded friend; not without reason, for a strong breeze was briskly swinging the old sign to and fro, and the storm of the night before had left dangling by a single rusty hook. "The Plow and Anchor!" I muttered, as I eyed it and warily edged along the bench from under it. "I wonder what came first at the beginning of things, and when the first furrow was turned?"

"That will be something for you to think about till I get back," said Frampton benignly. "That chap with the plow somehow takes me back to Algeria." My friend grinned with a good-humored sarcasm. "Most things seem to do that," he said. "But if you want to ruminate on plowing, here's something for a start that takes one to the back of beyond." As he spoke he detached a coin from his watch-chain and tossed it to me. Next moment he looked at his watch and rose hastily to his feet. "Jove!" he exclaimed, "it's ten to! I must run for it." And swinging his coat across his shoulder, he picked up his bag and disappeared at a trot round the bend of the road to the station.

Frampton was right. Numberless incidents of the most trifling kind sufficed to carry my thoughts back to Algeria. Life in the desert, life in the towns, life in the Tell, each had impressed me vividly with its strange and distinctive attraction. In the latter district particularly I had studied the process and progress of farming carried on there in a way I should never have thought of doing at home. There was such a glamour over it all; over even the poverty and recklessness of the fellah and his primitive methods of agriculture. Like farmers all the world over, what he did and what he left undone was the result not of personal initiative, but of faithful adherence to precedent.

In spite of the efforts of the French government to introduce innovations and improvements the native cultivators of agrarian land plow, sow and reap as men did when the world was young. To see an Arab steering a yoke of oxen, one hand pressed upon the single stem of the plow and the other holding the long, slim goad, is to see a living illustration of how Elisha looked and moved when Elijah found him plowing and cast his cloak upon him in significant symbolism of his destiny. Only in some such insignificant details as the names of the months in the Kabyle dialect is the stamp of Rome still visible, and in the system of hiring labor in the Tell there survives a custom belonging to the early days of the Roman republic.

This is what happens. A farmer finds himself in debt, or he wants a lump sum of money in order to marry and settle down. He forthwith borrows the required amount of a richer neighbor and signs a contract by which he practically enslaves himself until he is able to pay off the loan. His master must provide him with a plow and a pair of oxen, the seed for the crop and the necessities of life. He also receives a fixed allowance of oil, wheat any barley per month, besides a yearly supply of clothes and footwear, the price of them going to increase the original debt. In harvest-time the khamme, as he is called, is entitled to an assistant, but he often prefers to take a small indemnity and set his wife and children to work instead. Usually he is free to seek employment on his own account from January to April, and then he hires himself out for day labor in the vineyards and olive groves of the French colonists. But in the districts now given up to olive growing the khammes are few, as their wages soon enable them to free themselves; and before long, it may be safely prophesied, the Arab will relinquish this ancient usage in favor of modern European devices for tiding over bad times. Perhaps, too, it is hard to believe, he may be gradually induced to secure himself a richer return for his labor by using tools of modern shape, and in particular by exchanging his picturesque but ineffective wooden plow for the powerful up-to-date machine of steel and iron which the French have brought into Algeria. Three thousand years and more lie between the two, and in the extraordinary slowness of the evolution of the plow and the fundamental identity of its first and latest shapes one recognizes the genius of its inventor. Osiris or Bacchus? Triptolemus or Buzzyges was it? We only know that the ground was tilled with a share drawn by oxen in the age when every kindred had a god for an ancestor and the golden myths of Greece were in the making.

At this point in my meditations I became aware that I still held Frampton's coin in my closed palm. I took it in my fingers and began to examine it. My little Greek just enabled me to decipher its superscription and gather that it was of the coinage of Sicily, dating from about 600 B. C. On one side it bore an almost obliterated head, of Demeter presumably; on the obverse the figure of a plow drawn by two serpents. With such a plow the sacred line enclosing Greek and Etruscan cities must have been traced, and with such a plow did Romulus draw his circle round Mount Palatine, lifting it from the ground wherever a gate was to be. It differed but slightly from the crooked hoe held by Osiris, or from the hand plow with which Samgar, judge of Israel, fought the enemies of his people, being all of one piece, with pins or plugs inserted in the stem to which the leather thong of the yoke might be attached. A tree trunk with a bent knee was an obvious necessity, and, as to this day in Algeria, the holm oak seems to have been a favorite for the purpose. Hesiod, writing 700 years before the Christian era, advises a husbandman to cut down a tree of suitable shape wherever he may encounter it and straightway bear it home.

Cross-Bred Indian Names.

Minnehaha, laughing water—what prettier name, in sound and in sense, could there be? But the saddest thing about American nomenclature is the way in which languages have been cross-bred, with deplorable results. All these Indian "Minnie" names are delightful when left alone; and the white man did well in naming the state of Minnesota after the river, which, being interpreted, is "sky-tinted water." But then he must go and contrive "Minneapolis" for its chief town—a shocking mixture of Indian and Greek. What lovely names they must have missed when they imported their Jacksonvilles to dispossess the red man's language!—London Chronicle.

Remarkable Forest Work.

In point of variety and scope the forest work done on the Billmore estate in North Carolina is remarkable. The forests, which cover 130,000 acres, are made profitable by the production of various forms of material. Four million feet of lumber, five thousand cords of tannic acid wood and fuel, one thousand cords of tin bark, and several hundred cords of pulp wood are cut every year. At the same time the forest through wise management is bettered and is steadily increasing in value. Workmen employed along the boundaries of the forest do duty as fire guards. Thus fire protection is secured throughout all the accessible parts of the tract.—Hay, Flour and Feed Journal.

34 DEAD IN WRECK

EXCURSION AND FREIGHT TRAINS CRASH AT SAUJON FRANCE.

108 PERSONS ARE INJURED

Lives of 1,200 Persons Are Jeopardized by Open Switch—Most of Killed Were School Girls Returning From Vacation.

Paris.—An excursion train was wrecked at Saujon Sunday and 34 persons, many of them school girls, were killed and 80 others were injured, several of them fatally.

The accident came without warning and in the wild panic that followed the crash many of the passengers were trampled upon and probably fatally injured. Speeding at 60 miles an hour, the excursion train with 1,200 passengers on board, struck an open switch and before the engineer realized the peril, smashed into a side-tracked freight train.

A relief train, with all the available doctors, was rushed to the scene. The uninjured passengers aided in dragging out the dead and injured. An emergency hospital was established at the side of the track and everything possible was done to aid the victims.

Most of those on board were school girls returning from their vacations. Their frenzied efforts to aid their injured comrades only served to increase the excitement and hampered the doctors considerably in the work of rescue.

The engineer and fireman tried to jump as the crash came, but were pinned in the wreckage. The boiler exploded and many were scalded by the boiling water.

An investigation is being made to place responsibility for the wreck. It is claimed that there was no signal to warn the engineer that the switch was open.

So many were the victims that at first only those who had been seriously hurt received medical attention. As fast as they were attended they were put aboard the relief train and rushed to Bordeaux, where they were placed in hospitals.

TROOPS TO COMBAT FLAMES

Soldiers Are Rushed to National Forests in Northwest to Fight Destructive Fires.

Washington.—Forest fires in the northwest, threatening destruction to human life and to millions of dollars' worth of property, have alarmed officials of the interior department and forest service.

In response to appeals from the fire zones additional United States soldiers were Saturday rushed to assist in combating the flames.

The soldiers have been dispatched to the Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, Lewis and Clark, Mont., Wallows, Mont., and Colville, Wash., national forests; the Flathead Indian reservation, Montana, and the Glacier National park, Montana. The troops have been spread over the entire fire belt and Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, has informed the interior department and forest service officials that the assistance of the army will be given in meeting the emergency to the limit of the number of soldiers available, if necessary.

Missoula, Mont.—Conditions in the forests of western Montana show no appreciable improvement. The work of securing fire-fighting crews is being vigorously pressed.

In the forests about Missoula the situation grows worse.

BELGIAN EXPOSITION BURNS

100,000 People in Panic—Two Persons Are Killed and Forty Injured, Some Fatally.

Brussels.—One hundred thousand visitors were thrown into a panic by a fire that wiped out the entire Belgian exposition. Two persons are known to be dead and 40 injured, some fatally.

The flames started in the French section and had gained considerable headway before they were discovered. The instant the alarm was given, the 100,000 persons at the exposition became panic-stricken and a wild rush was made for the exits.

The people fought and struggled in a maddened attempt to get out of the place. Many of those hurt received their injuries by falling to the floor and being trampled upon by the crowd.

The two killed were trapped by the flames and attempts to rescue them were unsuccessful. The crowd got to places of safety, however, before the flames reached them. No estimate of the damage, which was great, has been made.

Ade Writing New Comedy.

TEN YEARS OF SUFFERING

Restored at Last to Perfect Health by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Narcissa Waggoner, Carterville, Ill., says: "For over ten years I suffered terribly with backaches, headaches, nervous and dizzy spells. The kidney secretions were unnatural and gave me great trouble. One day I suddenly fell to the floor, where I lay for a long time unconscious. Three doctors who treated me diagnosed my case as paralysis and said they could do nothing more for me. As a last resort, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was permanently cured. I am stronger than before in years." Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Doll House Library.

A search for a child's short story "The Griffin and the Minor Canon," in a volume all by itself revealed to persistent city shopper the thought and money that are expended on the furnishing of dolls' houses. Book stores had not the story in a single volume, but in a department store one young woman interviewed had recently been transferred from the toy department and was able to contribute a helpful hint.

"I think," she said, "you can find it in one of the dolls' houses downstairs." Curiosity had by that time become a sauce to literature, so the shopper hurried downstairs to inspect the doll houses. Three of the most expensive houses contained libraries consisting of a score of diminutive books and each book contained a child's story complete. One of them was "The Griffin and the Minor Canon."

A Fitting Design.

"I want an estimate on 10,000 letter heads," said the professional-looking man with the silk hat.

"Any special design?" asked the engraver.

"Yes, sir," replied the caller. "In the upper left-hand corner I want a catchy cut of Patrick Henry making his memorable speech, and in distinct letters, under the cut, his soul-inspiring words, 'Give me liberty or give me death.' You see, he added, handing a card to the engraver, "I'm a divorce lawyer, and want something fitting."—Lippincott's.

Quotation Marks.

Senator Beveridge, in an after-dinner speech in Cleveland, said of a corrupt politician:

"The man's excuse is as absurd as the excuse that a certain minister offered on being convicted of plagiarism."

"Brethren," said this minister, "it is true that I occasionally borrow for my sermons, but I always acknowledge the fact in the pulpit by raising two fingers at the beginning and two at the end of the borrowed matter, thus indicating that it is quoted."

Advice.

"Doctor," cried little Bingle, over his telephone, "my wife has lost her voice. What the dickens shall I do?" "Why," said the doctor, gravely, "if I were you I'd remember the fact when Thanksgiving Day comes around, and act accordingly."

Whereupon the doctor chuckled as he charged little Bingle two dollars for professional services.—Harper's Weekly.

Commemorating Historic Scenes and Heroic Deeds

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
COPYRIGHT BY W.A. PATTERSON

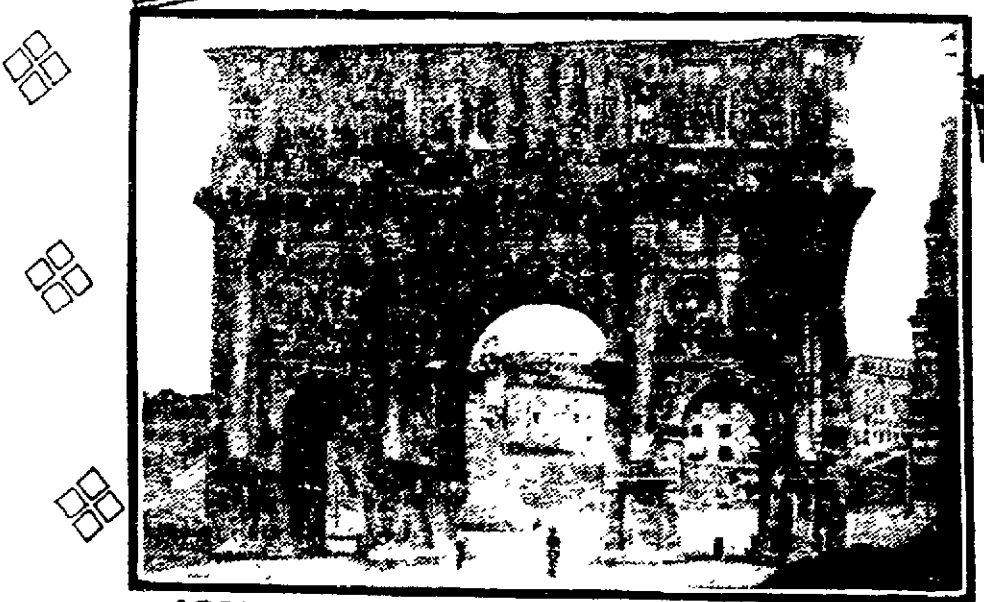

IT IS probable that never before in the history of the country has there been such a well-sustained movement as there is today to secure proper public memorials of the dead who in life rendered great service to their fellows, and to commemorate by tablets and by monuments the scenes of great battles and of the great events of peace which had their lasting effect upon the history of this great republic.

For two or three years during the sessions of congress, the senate and house committees which have memorial matters in charge have been busy considering memorial plans which properly might have congressional support. At the same time the Daughters of the American Revolution and kindred patriotic societies have been engaged in the work of raising funds to make memorials of the past possible. In the city of Washington the residents have felt a touch of the same spirit, and there is here today an active organization which was formed for the express purpose of providing ways and means to keep in the mind of the present generation, the memories of the past, by means of worthy memorial tablets emplaced on buildings of historic interest, or on land or ground made famous as the witnesses of historic events.

For some time there have been before congress three plans for a great memorial to Abraham Lin-

ARCH OF TRIUMPH, PARIS

ARCH OF CONSTANTINE, ROME

WASHINGTON MONUMENT, WASHINGTON

The money for the arches at Valley Forge is to be expended by the Valley Forge park commission under the direction of the secretary of war. A considerable part of the encampment grounds of General Washington at Valley Forge, in the winter of 1777-1778 has from where Varnum's brigade is supposed to have been encamped, a log hut of the exact dimensions erected by the soldiers under Washington. Above the door to this hut has been placed a tablet bearing the following inscription:

On This Spot Stood One of the Huts Occupied by the Soldiers of Washington's Camp During the Winter of 1777-1778 This Reproduction Was Erected by Colonial Chapter of Philadelphia, Daughters of the Revolution, May, 1905.

Members of the senate committee on library, express the hope that eventually all the great battlefields of the Revolutionary and Civil wars in the states of Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland will be connected by boulevards.

The great memorial arch at Valley Forge will be one of the few great arches of history which will represent something more than mere victory in the name of men. It was a moral and physical victory in one that Washington and his men achieved at Valley Forge. They conquered privation and they conquered rebellion against the hardships of war.

The Romans were practically the originators of the memorial and triumphal arch. In fact, they used the arch as a building and bridge arch itself to a much greater extent than had ever been known before. These of the great Roman triumphal arches are still standing. They are those of Titus, Septimius Severus and Constantine. That of the first Christian emperor is by far the most beautiful. It marks the triumphal return from Gaul and Britain and tradition has it, by the blazing cross of stars, with the luminous sign which bade him "conquer by this."

In the Arch of Septimius there could be traced for years after its erection, the information that the emperor had gained great victories over the Parthians. As one looks at this monument today it is interesting to recall that the man and emperor who passed in triumph under it after its completion, was the one who built the wall in Britain to check the inroads of the fierce Scotch Highlanders. The Arch of Titus has but one arcade or entrance, and upon this there rested at one time with other spoils of war, the golden candlesticks of the Temple of Jerusalem, of which Titus in very truth, had not left "one stone upon another."

Of the other famous Roman arches, the foundations of one erected in the days of the republic, may still be traced, though of the structure which rose above them little or nothing is known. It was under this arch that Fabius Maximus walked in triumph after he had thoroughly thrashed the Gauls. Another arch, but of which no trace exists, was one that was erected in Syracuse in honor of Verres, the legate of Rome in Syracuse, for whom Cicero, as every schoolboy knows, made it so uncomfortable in one of his orations.

There are still foundations left of the Arch of Drusus, erected to commemorate the success won in Germany by the son of Augustus who always been a forest, and the greater part of the earthworks, consisting of entrenchments, the star redoubts, and Forts Washington and Huntington, had not been greatly affected by the elements nor disturbed by man. In 1878 an imposing celebration of the anniversary of the evacuation was held. As a result of this celebration, the Centennial Memorial association was formed by patriotic women, who purchased the house which General Washington occupied during the greater part of the encampment. The house has been restored to its condition when occupied by Washington.

In 1893, the general assembly of Pennsylvania declared that "the title to and ownership in the ground covering the site, including Forts Washington and Huntington, and the entrenchments adjacent thereto, and the adjoining grounds, in all not exceeding 250 acres, but not including there-in the property known as Washington's headquarters, and now owned by the Centennial and Memorial Association of Valley Forge, shall be vested in the state of Pennsylvania, to be laid out, preserved and maintained forever as a public place, or park, by the name of Valley Forge, so that the same and their fortifications thereon may be maintained as nearly as possible in their original conditions as a military camp."

Since the establishment of the park, the state of Pennsylvania has appropriated $312,215 toward the acquisition and improvement of the land and buildings, including the Washington headquarters building and grounds, which were acquired five years ago by condemnation, and made free to all visitors. The park now contains 467 acres.

In 1901 the Daughters of the Revolution erected on the reservation an imposing granite shaft 50 feet high, called the Waterman monument. On the face of the monument is the following inscription:

To the Soldiers of Washington's Army Who Sleep at Valley Forge, 1777-1778. Erected by the Daughters of the Revolution.

On the south side is another inscription as follows:

Near This Spot Lies Lieutenant John Waterman, Died April 23, 1778, Whose Grave Alone of All His Comrades, Was Marked.

It is estimated that there were 2,000 deaths in General Washington's army during the winter's stay in this camp. Most of the bodies were buried in the camp grounds. Five years ago the Daughters of the Revolution erected east of, but not far

WISCONSIN HAPPENINGS

Portage. — Because Timothy McMahon objected to his wooing, Edward Lennon shot him from ambush, according to a confession said to have been obtained from Lennon by District Attorney H. A. Gunderson. Lennon is in jail here, having been arrested by deputy sheriffs just after he had become unconscious from trying to hang himself to a rafter in his barn. According to the confession Lennon, who is a widower and has two young sons, paid court to McMahon's daughter and resented the father's objection to his pressing his suit. Twice he fired at McMahon from ambush, but the bullets went wide each time. On the night of July 31 his aim was better and the highway commissioner was found dying. When the officers reached Lennon's home they found him hanging from a rope, nearly dead.

Sheboygan. — A ludicrous tangle over a missing $12 Panama hat has occupied local official circles since the headgear owned by Justice Adam Trester, which he took to a cleaning shop, was given to the wrong customer and disappeared. Principal A. C. Kingsford of Sheboygan Falls was given the Trester hat and wore it some time. A writ of replevin was issued but Kingsford returned the hat and now says he will sue the cleaner for his hat.

Superior. — An opened registered letter envelope, containing two bank certificates for $5,000 each, was found in the residence district here and an investigation shows that the letter contained a third certificate for a similar amount, which is missing. The letter was sent from the American Exchange bank in Duluth to the Superior State bank, and the letter was stolen during the night. No arrests have yet been made.

Oshkosh. — In a meeting of the common council the committee appointed to investigate the advisability of municipal ownership of the water power plant, presented a report favorable to the project which was accepted by the council and a resolution was adopted by that body, providing for the submission of the question to the people at the time of the regular election in November.

La Crosse. — It is announced that no further effort will be made this season to re-establish the Diamond Joe traffic on the upper Mississippi river, owing to the extremely low stage of water. The regular season has usually closed about September 1, when the water is ample for the big packets. The present river season has been a complete loss.

Kenosha. — Charles Frank, a bachelor sixty years of age, widely known throughout Kenosha county, was found dead in the Fox river near the Fox River station. It is supposed that Frank committed suicide, as the water at the point where he was drowned was not more than three feet deep. The dead man had been an invalid for a long time and he had been despondent.

Kenosha. — The police of Kenosha have started a new war on gambling. They raided a saloon operated under the name of Nathan Gordon and made ten arrests. Gordon was fined $100 and costs as keeper of the place and the men who were found at work about the tables paid fines ranging from $5 to $20 and the costs of the actions.

Beloit. — The Southern Wisconsin Young People's Lutheran federation elected officers as follows: President, Rev. O. Wilke, Madison; vice-president, Miss Alice Strampe, Janesville; treasurer, Carl Kirchner, Beloit; secretary, F. E. Eckstein, Logansville. The next meeting place will be Johnson Creek.

Neenah, Aug. 12. — Mrs. Fred Robie, a pioneer resident of Winnebago county, is dead as the result of injuries received several days ago, when she fell from a carriage. She was seventy-six years old.

Green Bay. — Professor Nord-gord of the University of Wisconsin will conduct a demonstration for farmers of Brown county at the Wisconsin state reformatory farm.

Richland Center. — The three-year-old child of Albert Brandt hanged itself on some clothing on a clothes line, and died as a result. The child had gotten its head through the neck of a dress and it became twisted about its neck until the child was strangled.

Fond du Lac. — A small boy playing with matches started a conflagration that swept the farm of J. P. Liner, southeast of the village of Brandon, leaving only the farm house standing. Two or three horses perished in the fire.

Racine. — The cornerstone of the new $40,000 hall of the Danish Brotherhood, order No. 4, was laid. Addresses were made by Mayor A. J. Horlick, Congressman H. A. Cooper, Ivar Kirkegaard and others. This building is to take the place of the one destroyed by fire last winter.

Whitewater. — Gertrude Hulise, a graduate of the Whitewater normal school with the class of 1909, left for Bangalore, India, where she will teach in a mission school. Miss Hulise is a daughter of a retired Presbyterian minister, who came to Whitewater to secure educational advantages for his children.

Beloit. — The annual picnic of the Rock county soldiers and sailors was held here. The feature of the program was the dedicating of an old war cannon to the Fourth Wisconsin battery, which did valiant service in the war.

A Bernhardt Trick. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who is supposed to be something of an artist as well as an actress, was recently called upon in one of her marvelous creations to enact the role of a sculptor, and to model a certain bust in view of the audience. This fairly electrified the critics, but when going into rhapsodies over the technical skill in handling the clay which Mme. Bernhardt exhibited they showed that they knew little of the artistic tricks of actors and actresses; as a matter of fact, she does nothing of the kind. The bust is modeled and baked, and over it is placed damp clay of the same color. This the talented actress merely pulls off, exposing the beautifully modeled head underneath.
